1923 TAX PAYMENTS HEAVY DURING PRESENT MONTH

Receipts So Far For November Total $835,016 and Reduce Uncollected Balance to $1,206,030—Showing Satisfactory for First Year Under New System

So far the month of November has brought 1923 tax payments to the office of the city treasurer in the amount of $835,016.77, which is considered a particularly satisfactory showing. The amount of uncollected taxes at the close of business last Saturday was $1,206,030.37, against a balance of $2,041,047.14 on November 1.

Of the total amount of $835,016.77 collected during the month, $638,724.65 came in on the first and second days of the month, which marked the expiration of the grace period of 17 days, dating from October 15, during which time taxes were not subject to interest charges. Taxes paid after the 2nd, however, and continuing until January 15, 1924, are subject to 6 per cent interest. After Jan. 15 the interest rate jumps to 8 per cent on all amounts over $200.

The first of each year usually finds the amount of outstanding taxes for the year just previous approximately $1,000,000, but if payments continue to be made in fair sums during December, a total less than this approximation probably will remain uncollected.

The biggest collection on any one day during the present month aside from the first two days was on the 19th, when it amounted to $33,753.46. The smallest collection, totalling $1353.12, came on the 21st.

Chattering smoothly with every cylinder but two working briskly in the crisp morning air, two bubbling rivers of the sedan and touring car class attempted to pass one another and keep right on going at the same time at the corner of Elm and Gorham streets, shortly before 8 o'clock this morning. Both failed to do the trick. It was a collision highly spectacular, with a near double head-on and side-swiping contact—the queerest driver jousting

ULTIMATUM IGNORED, BELGIUM SEIZES GERMAN ROLLING STOCK

Belgium Demanded Indemnity of 1,250,000 Francs for Assassination of Lieut. Graff Near Duesseldorf in March, 1922

BRUSSELS, Nov. 26.—The Belgian government today seized German rolling stock at Duisburg and Hamburg in view of Germany's failure to reply to Belgium's ultimatum, demanding an indemnity of 1,250,000 francs for the assassination of Lieut. Graff, near Duesseldorf, in March 1922.

The time limit fixed by the Belgian ultimatum expired last night. Belgium had previously rejected an offer from Germany to submit the question to the Hague tribunal for arbitration and the Berlin government was notified that the amount claimed as indemnity would be confiscated in the occupied region should Germany fail to pay.

The shooting of Lieut. Graff occurred while he was riding in a street car between Rheinfeld and Walsum. His slayers, four members of the German Green police, pleaded mistaken identity, declaring they believed the lieutenant to be a Belgian they were seeking in order to avenge a German police officer, whom he had killed.

14 MISSING IN MINE EXPLOSION

CHICAGO, Nov. 26 (by the Associated Press).—Twelve men were badly burned and taken to a West Frankfort hospital and 14 men still were unaccounted for at noon, according to information received at the general offices of the Chicago, Wilmington & Franklin Coal Co. from Mine No. 1, near West Frankfort, where an explosion occurred this morning in one of the workings.

LITTLE GIRL STRUCK BY AUTOMOBILE

Doris Thomas, aged 6 years, of 41 Whipple street, was struck by an automobile about 11:40 o'clock this morning at the corner of Central and Wamsott streets, and was taken to St. John's hospital by the driver of the machine, Francis J. Kelleher of 111 Agawam street. According to the police report, given by Kelleher, the child was standing on the sidewalk and ran out into the street as his car approached. She was struck by the right rear mudguard. Her injuries are not believed to be serious, although their exact nature will have to be determined by an X-ray.

Distinguished Visitor Comes to Lowell Under Auspices of League of Catholic Women—Gives Instructive Lecture on "The Catholic Philosophy of Social Service"— Entertained by Lowell Council K. of C.

City and church dignitaries, representatives of civic, patriotic and social organizations, and an audience approximating 4000 people joined in a gratifying reception to Rear Admiral William S. Benson in the Memorial Auditorium last night, where the distinguished ex-naval official delivered a comprehensive and instructive lecture on "The Catholic Philosophy of Social Service" under the auspices of the League of Catholic Women.

Seated on the stage with the guest of honor last night was Dr. Emma V. Slaughter, president of the league; Rev. Joseph A. Curtin, chaplain; Mayor John J. Donovan, Rev. James F. Lynch, chaplain of Bishop Delany assembly, Fourth Degree, Knights of Columbus; Rev. Daniel J. Heffernan, chaplain of Lowell council, 72, K. of C.; Rev. John J. McGarry, D.C.L., of St. Patrick's church; Rev. Charles J. Galligan of St. Margaret's; Rev. Denis A. Sullivan, O. M.I., of the Sacred Heart; Rev. William Brennan of St. Margaret's; Frank A. Groves, Grand Knight of the Lowell K. of C.; Edward F. Slattery, Jr., lecturer of Lowell council; Capt. Joseph Molloy, commander of the American Legion; Horatius Leggat, president of the Lowell Navy club; Major Walter R. Jeyes, chairman, and members of the league orchestra.

Preceding the formal opening of the meeting, the orchestra, under the direction of John J. Giblin, with Miss Ruth Boulger at the piano, rendered several patriotic selections. Solos were given by Mrs. Nana Gallagher, Lenhoy and Mr. Andrew A. McCarthy, while a sextet of Glen club members, accompanied by Miss Irene Lawler and Mrs. Angela O'Brien, gave a pleasing number. The musical program was in charge of Mrs. Ella Reilly Teye.

Dr. Slaughter opened the meeting and welcomed the guest on behalf of the league. She then called upon Mayor Donovan who, in a few choice words, extended the greetings of the city. The admiral was next presented and after expressing his appreciation for the compliment accorded him by the presence of uniformed veterans in the front seats, he spoke as follows:

When Mrs. Saunders invited me to address you, she suggested the subject, she wished me to discuss—"The Catholic Philosophy of Social Service." As she did not indicate the specific meaning of the terms, it is my inference

HENRY SULLIVAN SPEAKS AT HIGH SCHOOL

Henry M. Sullivan, conqueror of the English channel, addressed two enthusiastic assemblies at the high school this morning. Mr. Sullivan's topic was "Sportsmanship." One point that he stressed was the lack of honor given to the loser in this country. In France, he said, the loser was given as great a reception as the winner merely for the fact that he entered into the competition. He also urged the boys and girls of the high school that, when in sports contests, never to be little their opponents. That, he said, is very poor sportsmanship. He also

FASTEST SUB IN WORLD

LONDON, Nov. 26.—The submarine 1, which is nearing completion at a Chatham dockyard for the British navy, will be the longest, as well as the fastest submersible craft in the world, according to the Morning Post. She will have a surface speed of 33 knots, thus enabling her to accompany battleships when steaming at full speed. The submarine will carry six 5.5 inch guns, an armament said to be unique for an under-sea craft. Her displacement will be 3500 tons. It is recalled that the first British submarine built in 1901, displaced 120 tons and had a surface speed of nine knots.

LONGEST CABLE IN THE WORLD

HAVRE, France, Nov. 26.—The new Franco-American cable, said to be the longest in the world was landed safely yesterday by the cable steamer Stephen. The line will be in operation in a few days.

PLAN WINTER ACTIVITIES

New Programs at Boys' Club

—Boys Selected to Handle Departments

New programs for winter recreational sport programs at the Lowell Boys' club on Dutton street, are now ready for announcement. Radical changes have been made in one or two departments including feature specialties never before attempted at the popular haven for healthy, wide-awake youth. Appointments have just been made for carrying out increased departmental work in many branches, all under the personal direction of Major Walter R. Jeyes, club superintendent and physical director.

The 1924 appointments followed a special meeting of the Boys' club directors with co-operating members of the Lowell Rotary club. Among the leaders in the latter organization, long interested in Boys' club activities and who visits the Dutton street quarters regularly to give all possible aid, is Robert W. Thomson.

During the winter season recreational departments will be handled by the following boys selected from a list of high-class records:

Pool room, "Bill" Strika, Gymnasium, Danny Shea, Game room, Joe Wrenn.

Danny Strika will be office boy and Thomas Wrenn handles basketball and handball.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Looby will continue as janitor and matron, respectively.

Assistant to the superintendent Charles W. Barton, who has been with the Boys' club during the past year, has departed temporarily from Dutton street to take an eight-weeks' course of special club administrative studies at Columbia university, under the federal government vocational training system. He will return early in January and at once resume his duties here.

The attendance at all sessions conducted by the local club has been rapidly increasing again during the past two weeks. More than 1400 devotees of this all-free institution on Dutton street now enjoy all privileges. The Saturday night showers are patronized by several hundreds now, and soap and towels are free to all.

Plans for celebrating "Loyal Boys' Week" are in the making, with patriotic backing assured and the club executives anxious to clinch public support for the week's observance and special exhibitions.

The library has outgrown its bounds, with new and secondhand volumes arriving weekly and many visitors calling to leave not only books but also toys, but other useful gifts including new games. The game department is today a popular place, and replacements of worn-out checkers and dominos and other pastime necessities, are now being made.

Something the Boys' club wants a swimming pool. Patrons of the club have long talked of installing one, but nothing has been done. Major Jeyes believes that the gymnasium would be as good as any in the land with a good swimming pool close by. Lack of room at the Dutton street building has been about the only reason for no pool, although the useful showers are helping out nicely on Saturday night.

Lowell Boys' club is growing along many interesting new lines. The employment department is branching out monthly. More than 90 healthy, capable Lowell boys were found good positions, either permanent or temporary, last year through the club executive offices. Several boys were given temporary work last week. There is always a "waiting list" at the Dutton street club, showing the desire of many boys to secure employment, earn money and start a bank account, as most of them have done who won good jobs.

Boys between the ages of 5 and 18 years can now have free use of the club quarters.

The Lowell Boys' Club association is now headed by Fred C. Church, Sr.,

with Robert W. Thomson, treasurer. Moving pictures are to be shown this winter on Tuesday and Thursday evenings. Doors are open week-days, except Saturdays from 4 to 9:15 p.m. On Saturdays the hours are 1 to 9:30. Recent gifts to the splendid library are noted as coming from well known business men engaged in welfare work on the side. Harry Pollard has again remembered the boys with good looks of the right kind. New gym apparatus, including new mats, punching bags and gloves for coming boxing contests, have just been installed by Major Jeyes, who is arranging a series of contests to come soon. The club has six excellent welders of the gloves already, with a dozen other lads anxious to get into practice. Boxing bouts would be held on Wednesday evenings. "Amateur Night" comes now on Tuesday, with pictures an added attraction. The Sun has by far the largest circulation of any Lowell paper. Ninety per cent. of Sun readers do not read any other Lowell newspaper. See the point, Mr. Advertiser?

TAKEN FROM LIFE

This Little World

BY MASON DIXON N.E.A. Service Writer

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 26.—New Orleans is the home of the first jazz strike of history. The ancient city's Tango Bell opened the autumn season with many new cabarets and with a hectic demand for jazz. Jazz players, jazz singers, jazz dancers were worked to a fare-you-well, night after night, until they struck last week. Struck for higher pay and a three-platoon shift system. They won. Now the Tango Bell responds to the striking band of the old-time jazz. And the jazz-babies are happy.

dance in New Orleans on Manuel street, a little street on the outskirts. In the local newspapers lately has been much agitation about renaming some New Orleans streets for famous figures in her two centuries of history.

Sombody explained it to Achmed. He approved. Then a drayage company complained to City Commissioner Paul Maloney that something was wrong out on Manuel street.

Commissioner Maloney investigated. He found that Achmed had torn down the street signs that proclaimed it Manuel street, and had erected at his own expense signs which proclaimed the thoroughfare Salk street.

"The city commission gently but firmly told Achmed that a man's fellow-citizens had to determine how famous he was. Now it's a Manuel street again, and Achmed Salk mourns.

Robert Hayno Tarrant, New Orleans impresario, has a penchant for loud cravats. Rosa Ponselle, the singer, cured him. Rosa was in New Orleans this week. Tarrant met her at the train. Admiral Benson Speaks Here that I was left free to develop the topic along the lines of my own experience and preferences. I shall, therefore, explain hurriedly the sense in which I take the title, and I shall gladly express my views within the limits thus set down.

In naval warfare as I am acquainted with it, we include under the term strategy, two elements, views and operations. We interpret the experience of the past. We examine carefully the resources, habits of mind, methods and tendencies of the enemy. We draw our conclusions and then adapt judgment and project plans in accordance with these. We issue directions. We anticipate situations and depend upon officers and men to show unqualified obedience, prompt decision, and resourcefulness in situations not foreseen. We then go into battle with energy and confidence. The sum total of our convictions, insight and conclusions constitutes our philosophy of warfare. Our operations in conflict are the expression of that philosophy in terms of action.

The term "philosophy" in relation to social service indicates the sum total of fundamental views that guide our interpretations and direct our action as Catholics who share the common life and would serve it well. By "social service" I understand the whole range of unselfish and idealistic activity by which the individual serves the community, the strong classes serve the weak classes, they who have the gift of wealth aim to edify and serve those to whom that gift has not been vouchsafed. By "social strategy" I would understand the plans under which this social service is actually carried out in the adjustment of life. If we project campaigns, anticipate situations and try to forestall conflict in the strategy that governs naval operations, may we not project campaigns, anticipate situations and forestall activity in the field of social service? I think not only that we can do so, but also that we must do so.

In naval operations every man from the one who cares for engines or sweeps the deck of the battleship or takes the helm, to the officer in command of the fleet, draws enthusiasm from the thought of serving his country and gains his personal estimate of himself from feeling that he is part of a great agency in the life of the nation. Likewise, every single worker in the field of Catholic social service must draw inspiration from the deeper thought of interpreting the glories of faith and serving his fellows in the spirit of Christian love. What, then, are the principles of Catholic philosophy as these guide us in social service? What are the situations that confront us? What are the aims and methods that govern us in the service that we offer, as Catholics, to human society?

Catholic Principles

Our Catholic principles may be stated simply. We believe profoundly in the spiritual quality of man and in his immortal destiny in God. We believe in divine revelation, in the divinity and authority of Jesus Christ as Head of the race, Redeemer and Friend. We believe in the living institution of the church and in the exalted sanctions of her authority as custodian and interpreter of revelation. We believe in the supernatural life, in the sacramental distribution of grace and in the intimate personal role of divine grace in every single relation in life. We believe in the law of human brotherhood as fundamental in social life. We hold that life is more than material, that service is nobler than self-indulgence, that strength is sanctified by serving weakness, and that men are nobler in proportion as they are unselfish.

We hold that all life is in a real sense spiritual; that the relation of statesman to citizen, of employer to laborer, of democrat to republican, of legislator to subject, is of a spiritual quality and that the laws of spiritual life, the principles of divine revelation are as binding here as they are when a man kneels to worship his God in formal prayer.

We believe also that the moral and spiritual forces are component parts of our democracy and that education, religion and public opinion, rooted as they should be in spiritual vision, have a primary role in maintaining the social order, in directing human relations, in disciplining ambition and motive and in promoting social peace. We much prefer to make an employer humane by appealing to his conscience rather than to civil law. We much prefer to promote voluntary effort in the service of all of the common purposes of life rather than encourage the less noble way of legislation. Hence it is that we appeal so constantly for the strengthening of moral and social forces rather than rush headlong to ask interference by the state. We seek as others do to promote social justice, to assure comfort and dignity to life, but our philosophy leads us to prefer the way of voluntary effort when it is possible.

Common Welfare Service

And, therefore, we hold that all men and all women who have strength, insight or wisdom over and above what they need to meet their personal, domestic and spiritual obligations are obliged by force of the higher law of Christian life to contribute of their surplus strength to the service of the common welfare. If we are right in holding this Christian interpretation of the stewardship of strength, Christianity must tell the possessors of wealth what they should do for the common welfare in order that they may vindicate in the sight of God their possession and management of property as a spiritual experience in life.

We hold furthermore in our Catholic philosophy that human personality is sacred, that personal rights are in last analysis defined but not created by society; and that the individual has a clearly defined right to an opportunity of personal development and refinement, free from excessive fear, free from excessive risk, free from excessive subjection to stronger competitors who may be victims of enforced selfishness. And finally, we hold that the church has in addition to her spiritual mission to souls, a definite and far-reaching role in promoting social welfare, in correcting erroneous social principles and in helping mightily to bring individuals happiness within the reach of increasing numbers. We hold that every Catholic by reason of his faith and his privileges should give the best of himself to the service of the common welfare in order that justice may prevail, in order that spiritual values may be respected, in order that the discipline of life founded upon faith may be vindicated by every believer worthy of the name.

This in brief is my understanding of the Catholic philosophy that underlies all social service. A theologian would define these principles more accurately and with greater amplification. I hope that I am faithful to my theme in stating this as my understanding of Catholic philosophy. I hope that in stating these as my abiding convictions, I am but stating years.

Fact and Condition

Coming now from the region of philosophy to that of fact and condition, I wish to direct your attention to the situation that confronts us. The hold of the world on these divine truths, outside of the Catholic church, is weakening. It is our duty as Catholics to show forth the true flower of our faith in our personal life, in all of our attitudes toward life, in all of our activity and relations in life. Every Catholic is called upon, each in his own circle, to be a witness to his faith by his deeds, to show forth to the individual or the doubting world, the precious deposit of truth that he possesses by the gift of faith, and to show its actual social value in transforming and refining life.

The church as a divine teacher commands herself, as I, as a convert will know, through arguments drawn from reason, history and revelation. But she must also command herself today as she did in the past, by the types of men and women that she produces, by their outstanding service to all of the purposes that noble life. The Catholic business man, the Catholic professional man, the Catholic teacher, the Catholic statesman, the Catholic employer, the Catholic labor leader, the Catholic in the field of charity are all called upon specifically to be missionaries. Any one of these who ignores his obligation or is indifferent to it, violates the philosophy of Catholic social service and robs society no less than the church of his distinct and intended contribution to the peace and refinement of life.

The philosophy of Catholic social service must be brought to bear upon our problems of strength as well as our problems of weakness. The possessors of great industrial, social and political power must learn from the Christian law the principles that will discipline self-seeking, will show them the fallacies that mislead them and armament, the regulations that must hold them to perfect self-discipline and fine idealism as they administer their power in the interests of the common welfare, intelligently understood. The Christian view of the state, the Christian view of property, the Christian view of duties of one's station in life

Problems of Weakness

On the other hand, the church sees in the reach of her spiritual vision of life, the appalling problems of weakness that so harass the mind of the world, invites so much justified radical criticism and invites awakened minds to challenge the foundations of government, property, industry and law.

We know there are millions who are underpaid and under-nourished and are victims of a relentless economic fear. We know that there are children working who ought to be in school. We know that there are children with many physical defects whose health should receive intelligent care. We know that there are orphans who need us, weary mothers who long for the comfort that we can give, sinful and reckless and indifferent men who might have been noble had they had a chance. We know that there might be a poverty that is refined and not without its compensations. But we see the poverty that connotes misery, sin, coarseness, helplessness and inertia. The Catholic philosophy of social service drives us straight toward this kind of poverty and demands of us effort without delay, sacrifice without reluctance, industry without ceasing, until we have changed conditions and interpreted our principles in solemn pledge to these, the disinherited of the earth.

LOCKS AND CANALS IMPROVE LAND FOR SCHOOL CHILDREN

No Foundation for Report That the Corporation Was Planning to Develop Property for Own Use—
Engineer Safford Explains Situation

Bartlett Training school's playgrounds near Wannalancit street, popularly called "Canal Field," actually owned by the Locks and Canals Corporation, but "captured" a long time ago and held by schoolboys "right of eminent domain," is not to be disturbed by the waterway proprietors—not this year or next, either.

The corporation, so-called, is often a negligible quantity, as some corporations go. When little children call, however, you know how it is. Youth must be served, even by a corporation whose dignity brooks little trifling along sentiments of the mellow brand.

Reports have been circulated in Lowell during the past week to the effect that the corporation was planning to develop the large property back of the hill along the foot of the sloping grade that ends along the canal-way. It was also hinted that a street would be constructed from Broadway to Pawtucket. Engineer Arthur T. Safford, chief at the proprietors' Broadway office, was in conference as usual when a Sun man called, but soon appeared to explain the situation on the "canal road." The serious aspects of the about-town gossip vanished.

Mr. Safford Explains
"I am glad to explain the situation to you," said Mr. Safford. "The property you refer to is, of course, owned by the Locks and Canals Corporation. It has never been developed. Naturally, with the Bartlett school located on the hill-top close by, with the schoolyard running down to the boundary line separating the city and corporation lands, it was to be expected that children would not miss an opportunity to frolic on the open land just outside their own domain whenever possible.

"The Locks and Canals has been fully cognizant of this fact for many years. The land running along the canal road, so-called, and up to the canal-way, is today, as it has been in the past, a favorite playground for the school children.

"The proprietors have never had any desire to withdraw permission for these children to play there to their hearts' content. In fact, no permission was asked or required. It is a favorite area for healthy recreation, the proprietors have endeavored to establish adequate protective requirements to prevent the children from playing too near the canal, and have erected a long row of high posts covered with wire as a safeguard so that the school pupils will not roam along the canal banks.

"We have been pleased to do this, willing at all times to have the Bartlett school pupils adopt and use this plot of land as a playground. We have attempted to keep the land in condition for such use at all times. Some slope grading has been done, roadways have been required, and recently many loads of stones have been spread and leveled down to improve the condition of the roadway and make the playground more useful and the approach smoother."

"Asked if the proprietors had any plans for developing the property along other lines, or constructing a street of better foundation and usefulness than the one now running rather aimlessly across the "canal field," as the school pupils and instructors all call it, Engineer Safford said no innovations had been planned and there was nothing in the report that a new highway was contemplated from Broadway to Pawtucket, so far as the Locks and Canals proprietors were concerned.

"We have been endeavoring to make the present roadway more passable by filling in where storms have excavated and left some sections of the canal road in a condition far from comfortably passable," Mr. Safford added. He admitted, when questioned, that this work was not demanded by anyone, that it did not have to be done, but that the proprietors of the Locks and Canals were doing it solely to benefit people who frequently use the canal road in transporting traffic. This is not a highway at all in the sense that it is a public way, but the Locks and Canals Corporation has never objected to its being used by anyone ordinarily desiring to travel through the "canal field."

The land now contains a well-groomed football field with goal posts and everything. There is a basketball "annex" nearby, and a baseball diamond big enough to put a crimp in any Pawtucket school star's ambition. To lift a home run over the wire fence into the canal waters and win the game. There is a semi-running track, too, if you know how to make the sharp turn at the old oak tree and be careful and not go too far around the hump of corrugated ground on your left as you return to the home station and the flag.

School Gardens Flourish

School gardens flourish in summer on a higher section of the canal proprietors' property, too. During the World war, community school gardens were tip-top in quality and bore fruitful harvests. During one two-year period since the war, vegetables bloomed as if trees were there to supervise and encourage. Indeed, State Normal school paid supervisors banded the garden promotions at one time and good old Bartlett captured many "firsts" in the premium awards.

To show the Locks and Canals proprietors' magnanimous desire to improve the plot of land for children's pleasure, a contractor was engaged to do some "filling in." It was discovered that he was dumping street sweepings and whatnot on the land blocked out for renovation, and the school instructors were agast. Straight to the proprietors' offices on Broadway went the grievances committee. And what happened? The proprietors, indignant that improper work had been done at their expense when they wanted only the best, engaged another contractor, with the result that good gravel and team of the expensive kind, was promptly trucked to the canal land and properly deposited to meet all requirements. And all this labor and expense, too, gladly performed by the proprietors of the Lowell locks and canals and with affable consideration for the interests of the children who were to be benefited without cost to them or the city of Lowell.

The only indication that the proprietors hold dominion over the "canal field" today is a small sign tacked on a big chestnut post close to the canal banks. It is a simple warning "to all persons" to keep away from the canal.

No one representative of Lowell's many public schools is happier than Miss Charlotte M. Murkland, the kindly principal of Bartlett school, who has long approved of the use of the land back of the school grounds. Miss Murkland today was emphatic in her praise of the Locks and Canals proprietors, who, she declared, have shown a spirit of sincere good feeling and abundant interest by graciously allowing the canal lands to remain wide open at all times as a playground haven for hundreds of delighted children of both sexes.

YEARS OF STOMACH AND BOWEL TROUBLE

Had Three Operations and Was All Run Down. Newspaper Guided Her Back to Health

"I suffered from stomach and bowel trouble in the worst form for a long time. I went through three serious operations and doctors all the time, but found nothing that would do me any good."

"On seeing Milk's Emulsion advertised in the daily papers I decided to try it. The first three doses relieved me, and I am now on the fourth bottle, and can say I have never taken any medicine that has done me so much good. I am feeling better than I ever did since my operations. I am gaining in health and flesh rapidly. I now weigh 145 pounds."—Mrs. Hattie Sharpe, 1018 Ridge St., Rockville, Md.

Thousands of sufferers from catarrh of the stomach, indigestion and bowel troubles, have found that Milk's Emulsion gives prompt relief and real, lasting benefit.

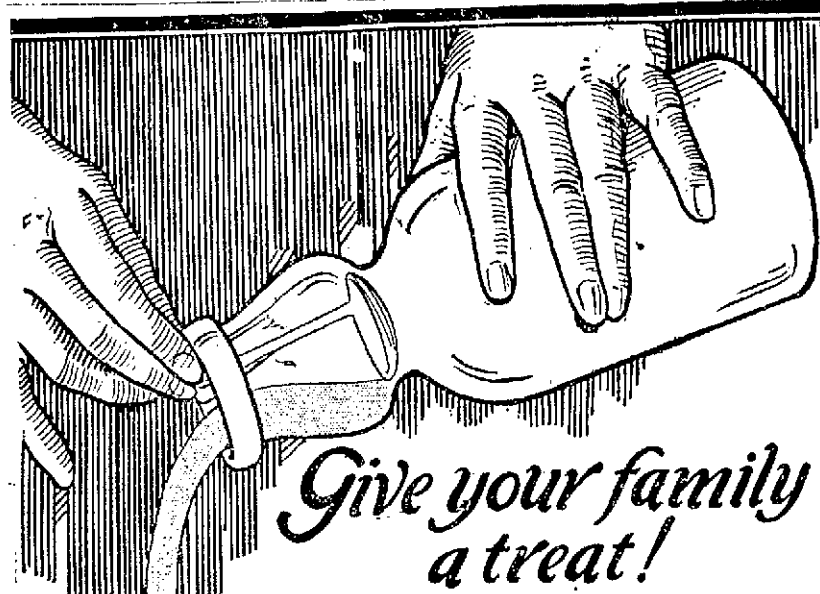

Milk's Emulsion restores healthy, natural bowel action; it is a truly corrective medicine, doing away with all appetite and quickly puts the digestive organs in shape to assimilate food and thus build flesh and strength. Milk's Emulsion is strongly recommended to those whose sickness has weakened; it is a powerful aid in resisting and repairing the effects of wasting diseases.

This is the only solid emulsion made, and so palatable that it is eaten with a spoon like ice cream. Wonderful for weak, sickly children.

No matter how severe your case, you are urged to try Milk's Emulsion under this guarantee: Take six bottles home with you, use it according to directions, and if not satisfied with the results, your money will be promptly refunded. Price 60 cents and $1.20 per bottle. The Milk's Emulsion Co., Terre Haute, Ind. Sold by druggists everywhere. Adv.

REMEMBER NEBRASKA

"Remember Nebraska." That is sure to be the battle cry of Notre Dame next year. For two successive seasons Nebraska has spoiled Notre Dame's chances of being named the best football team in the country. Prior to the Nebraska contests the experts were slipping the title of champion to Notre Dame, only to have the Cornhuskers miss up the dope. Much of the glory for the fine showing of Nebraska on the gridiron must go to Head Coach Fred Dawson and his able assistant, Henry Schulte. In their college days Dawson starred at Princeton and Schulte at Michigan.

Nice Folks

Delight in this method of combating film on teeth

Whiter teeth have come to millions in the past few years. You see them everywhere. The dingy film which used to coat them is now combated daily.

Those whiter teeth mean cleaner, safer teeth. You will want them when you know. Learn how to get them by this simple test.

The cause is film

Film is the cause of cloudy teeth—that viscous film you feel. Under old methods, much of it clings and stays. Soon it becomes discolored, then forms dingy coats, which once were more common than now.

Film also holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea. All of these troubles become alarmingly common under old methods of teeth cleaning.

Then dental science found two film combatants. One disintegrates the film at all stages of formation.

Protect the Enamel!

Pepsodent disintegrates the film, then removes it with an agent far softer than enamel. Never use a film combant which contains harsh grit.

The other removes it without harmful scouring.

Able authorities proved these methods by many careful tests. Then a new-type tooth paste was created to apply them daily. The name is Pepsodent.

Leading dentists everywhere began to advise it, and now it is used the world over.

New requirements

Pepsodent meets other new requirements. It multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva—there to neutralize mouth acids. It multiplies the starch digestant in saliva—there to digest starch deposits.

Thus every use of Pepsodent gives manifold power to these great natural tooth-protecting agents.

You'll quickly see

You will quickly see and feel these good effects. And you will realize what they mean to you and yours.

Send the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth become whiter as the film-coats disappear.

The results will be a revelation to you. They will bring a new conception of clean teeth. Cut-out coupon now.

Mrs. Evans Freed from Female Weakness by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Detroit, Michigan.—"I had female weakness with pains in my back, and I could not stand on my feet for any length of time. I was working in a factory but had to quit as I was too much on my feet. A friend recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to me, and I can hardly believe it myself that I am well. Oh, it is a grand thing to have your health! I feel well all the time and can go out like other women and not feel that awful torture. When I took your medicine first I thought it should cure after the first bottle, but I am glad my husband kept me at it. I have had nine bottles and now I am well."—Mrs. JENNY EVANS, 1604 Lafayette Blvd., Detroit, Michigan.

If you are suffering from displacements, irregularities, backache, nervousness or other forms of female weakness, you should take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. The reason is given in letters like these, and we have published thousands of them. You may expect that a medicine that has helped other women will help you. Try it.

CONTEMPT OF COURT

The city of New York is greatly excited over the action of United States Judge Mayer, who has sentenced Charles L. Craig, comptroller of the city of New York, to sixty days in jail for expressing his views on the action of the court relative to a certain receivership. The sentence was imposed on the ground of contempt of court and in which the judge criticised constituted himself as judge and jury in the case.

The sentence is regarded as a gross violation of the right of free speech and fair criticism even of the decisions of the courts, which seems to have been the ground for the summary action in the present case. It is claimed that the judge exceeded his authority in passing sentence upon Mr. Craig since the criticism uttered was not made in the presence of the court but outside and as a result of certain action on the part of the court. This, it is claimed, is a proper subject for fair criticism and that even if Comptroller Craig had overstepped his rights in criticizing the court, yet Judge Mayer as the complainant should not have passed upon the case, but should have caused it to be dealt with in the ordinary way by some other justice.

Already the action of Judge Mayer has aroused widespread interest throughout the entire country, and it has been decided to bring the matter to the attention of congress in December, when it is likely that a bill will be introduced providing that no judge shall pass upon a case in which he is complainant, except the offense is committed in his presence in open court or during the progress of a trial.

It does seem that the sentence is entirely unwarranted, and it is of special importance as it involves the rights of citizens and the powers of the courts not only in New York but throughout the entire country. It is important, therefore, that the question should be thoroughly discussed and decided upon its merits.

Already an appeal has been prepared for submission to President Coolidge and several public men have come out openly to denounce Judge Mayer and to defend the criticism made by Comptroller Craig. Amos Pinchot, a brother of the governor of Pennsylvania, has denounced the sentence in a letter to Judge Mayer, characterizing it as a monstrous thing and asking the judge to send him to jail for making such an accusation. The important point in reference to this case is, that if the sentence of Comptroller Craig be sustained, then a similar sentence may be imposed upon any other citizen of the United States under like conditions. The matter will be brought to the attention of President Coolidge inasmuch as the supreme court of the United States says that it is powerless to help Mr. Craig. Whether President Coolidge will decide to interfere or whether it is within his power to exercise executive clemency, remains to be determined. Judging from the present temper of the people of New York city, it is evident that they mean to push the matter to the limit. If the sentence be allowed to stand it may even affect the political action of the entire state at the coming presidential election.

FOR GOOD ROADS

It is but natural to find that our roads are generally inadequate to meet the new order of things and that as a result a great movement is in progress today to construct highways on a large scale that will be suitable for all kinds of vehicular traffic. Every state has four classes of roads, interstate, state, county and local. Every state should have first class trunk lines and these should fit into the great federal system of roads that is gradually being developed from the Atlantic to the Pacific and from the Gulf of Mexico to the Canadian border. Good roads are an investment although it is not good business policy to put more money into the construction of any road than its earning capacity warrants. The work of road building has received a great impetus recently and yet the plans of the road builders are only in the initial stage but they are to be put forward with more earnestness than ever next year.

Already the American Road Builders' association has arranged for a great road building exposition, and convention to be held in Chicago next January 14-15, for the purpose of creating more general interest throughout the country in the general subject of road building. As more than a billion dollars is being spent annually on roads, every manufacturer of any prominence who produces road building material or machinery or who has a special process of construction, will be represented.

The bureau of public roads, department of agriculture, will have a wonderful collection of models and machinery, illustrating their methods in building the 7 per cent. of the total road mileage of the nation, which is the limit of federal aid to states in road building, under the federal aid road acts. The National Highway association will have a very large and beautiful exhibit, and promises to show matters of intense interest to all road makers and road users.

All the state highway commissions will have representatives in attendance, and a very large number of county highway officials will doubtless be present. The gathering, like the exhibition, will thus be truly national in scope.

The largest attendance ever seen at such an affair is expected by the management, which has staged this great exposition in a city to which railroad travel from all points is quick and easy, and special railroad rates will be arranged for those desiring to attend.

It is expected that as a result of this exposition the movement for better roads will thereafter be more joyful.

WINTER RECREATION NEEDS

We are informed the Lowell park commission is in favor of erecting a permanent toboggan slide at some convenient spot on the Shedd playground in such a way that it would not interfere with the summer recreational grounds, nor become an eyesore by being placed too near Rogers street, where many residents of the Oakland section might protest against it as marred the natural beauties of the parkway.

We understand that Manchester, N. H., and the chamber of commerce of that city, now planning for winter playgrounds and sport programs, intend to erect at once a substantial toboggan slide of permanent construction at Rock Mountain. There will be a 700-foot runway and lights properly installed to illuminate the chutes. Only two inches of snow are needed to make the chute ideal for tobogganing.

Lowell promoters of winter sports at the Shedd park playgrounds or at Fort Hill would do well to inspect the imposing program now being arranged for the pleasure of the people of Manchester in the line of winter sports.

RECKLESS DRIVERS

The driver who ran over the little boy and his identity is unknown. Whether he was drunk or sober is also unknown, but the fact that he hastened away at an increased rate of speed when he found that he had run over a child would indicate that he was sober. An intoxicated man would hardly be guilty of such cowardice.

The question arises as to how the highways will be rid of drunken and reckless drivers. There is no other way than by arresting them wherever they are found and bringing them into court to suffer the penalties of the law. Next year it is expected that a measure will be enacted by the legislature imposing penalties much more severe than the law provides at present. It is necessary to adopt repressive measures with these dangerous characters in order to secure some reasonable measure of security on the public streets and highways.

STUDY BY RADIO

Columbia university has decided to begin broadcasting home study courses in literature for the benefit of students who cannot attend the classroom lectures. This opens up wonderful possibilities of study, culture and learning. It will correspond in some measure to the college extension courses offered by the Massachusetts state department of education in this state with this difference that the latter are eclectic, whereas those sent over the radio are not. Besides, the radio courses are general and cannot be sent into some receivers and denied to others that are tuned in. Nevertheless, it is encouraging to find that the radio will be used for this purpose. It is better to have such lectures broadcasted than to have the air continually filled with the ethereal reproduction of jazz music and other trashy productions that serve only to waste time.

EXPORT

In foreign trade, American exports in October totaled 492 million dollars. This was 31 million more than in October, 1922. The gain apparently reflects prevailing higher prices instead of any actual increase in sales.

October exports, however, did exceed imports by 99 million dollars. In the preceding nine months, exports exceeded imports by only 27 million dollars. So October was a good month for business abroad, although not nearly so good as it would be if our merchant marine were actively engaged in carrying our products to foreign markets.

It is beginning to appear that the lack of interest shown at the municipal primaries will be in evidence also at the final election. It is objected that the number of candidates is so small that it is hardly worth while to go to the polls; but there are two nominees for every vacancy to be filled and it is the duty of the voters to elect those who will give the most capable and unselfish service for all the people. From the list of nominees it is possible to select very acceptable candidates for every office to be filled, if the voters only exercise good judgment on election day.

Sweethearts Still

Two old Scotch friends met and referred to the days when they had been sweethearts. At last he said: "Ay, Jennie, an' I have loved anybody since you. I have never forgotten you." "John," she replied, with a little moistening of the eyes, "you're just as big a liar as ever, an' I believe ye list the same."

Lost and Found

Pa had made a long search for a certain book and finally soliloquized: "At last! Here it is. I wonder why one always finds a thing in the last place in which one hunted for it." "Dad, it's because when we find what we're looking for we stop hunting," remarked his young son.—Everybody's Magazine.

"This is the arena of the Colosseum," announced the tourist, doing a little lecturing for the benefit of his wife. "From your grim portals the lions entered. Youder sat Alexander the Great to supervise the combat." "Don't disorder your ignorance," retorted his better half. "Alexander the Great was never in Rome." "He was," "He was not," the husband subsided. "All right, my dear, I won't dispute you. This arena has seen enough battles."

Matches No Good

"Well, my little man, what can I do for you?" "Please, sir, mother says these matches she bought this morning are no good." "No good?" exclaimed the grocer. "What's the matter with them?" "This is the first complaint I've had." "Can't help that," said the boy, "mother says they're no good." "Nonsense!" replied the grocer. Then, taking a match from one of the boxes, he gave it a smart rub, which ignited it immediately, and turned to the boy again. "Well," he replied, "what have you got to say now?" "The complaint returned the disdainful look, undaunted. "That's all right, mother," he replied, "but 'dyou think my mother's coming 'ere to strike matches on your box every time she wants a light?"

Gettin' On

When I wuz somewhat younger
I wuz reckoned pretty gay—
I had my fling at everything
In a reckless, childish way.
But times have strangely altered
Since sixty years ago—
This age of steam an' things don't Seem like the age I used to know.
Your modern innovations
Don't suit me, I confess.
As did the ways of the good ol' days—
But I'm gettin' on, I guess.

I see on the piazza
An' hitch round with the sun—
Sometimes, maybe, I take a nap.
Waitin' till school is done.
An' then I tell the children
The things I done in youth.
"An' hear me I can be a venerable man!"
I stick to the honest truth!
But the looks of them 'at listen
Seen sometimes in eyes
The remote idea that I'm gone—you see?

An' I am gettin' on, I guess.
I get up in the mornin',
An' 'nother else to do.
Before the rest are up an' dressed
I read the papers throughly.
I hang round with the women
All day an' hear 'em talk
An' while they sew or knit, I show
The baby how to walk.
An' somehow, I feel sorry
When they put away his dress
An' cut his curls because they're like a girl's!
I'm gettin' on, I guess.

Sometimes, with twilight round me,
I see for soon to be old.
A distant shore where friends of yore
Linger and watch for me;
Sometimes I hear 'em callin'
So tenderly an' low
That it aches seemed like a dream
I dreamed
Of an echo of long ago.
An' sometimes on my forehead
There falls a part of stress,
Of the touch of the hand—you understand.
I'm gettin' on, I guess.

TOM SIMS SAYS

Well, it's settled that Christmas is coming. And everybody seems about as surprised as usual.

The older you are the quicker Christmas comes. The younger you are the slower Christmas comes.

Christmas is better than Thanksgiving. We celebrate more. And we have more time to recover.

Christmas is better than New Year. We don't have to make good resolutions and see the good die young.

Thanksgiving is fine, but seems to add a few pounds to all the fat folks, figuratively speaking.

Christmas doesn't make fat people fatter. The noise the kids make even worries off a few pounds.

Thanksgiving is earlier than the regular days in a small town because the mail doesn't come in.

Company is nice. No home is complete without it. Company postpones the regular family fights.

Women are fine people. They look swell. And all you need to know about them is what you don't know.

Keep your eye on women who let you talk too much. They have requests for not calling you a liar.

Women always brag about their poor appetites, but men are different. Men brag about what they eat.

Some cops are too reckless. In Los Angeles, one was so brave he married a widow with five children.

Who remembers back a few months ago when we had only one thousand presidential possibilities?

THE MAN ABOUT TOWN

The Lowell Humane society is constantly receiving telephone calls, requesting them to send an agent to a house to take away an animal that is sick, and finding out upon arrival that the cat or dog is dead and has been that way for some time. The proper public service to call on for the removal of the carcasses of the lower animals is the board of health and not the humane society, which is devoted to the alleviation of suffering alone. The cause of this gentle reminder was the visit paid by Assistant Agent Baker last night to a house to attend to a disposed feline, only to find that the animal had given up all its lives several hours earlier.

Chalk up Saturday, Nov. 24, as the day on which the first pair of over-shoes appeared on Lowell streets for this winter. Saturday morning two dainty young gosses appeared tripping their way down Central street with the w. k. emblem of the flapper concealing their feet, and causing much twisting of heads and craning of necks from the other unfortunates who were out getting their feet wet.

It is a revelation to those of us who attended the high school in the old days when the lunch counter purveyed sandwiches, coffee, rolls and cocoa, to visit the fine new cafeteria and see the array of food things that can be bought, including the special dinner each day which gives meat and potatoes at practically cost. It is much easier on the pin-money of the student than it was when the counter was run for mercenary profit, and flimsy lucre was apparently the sole object of the vendors of viands.

The father of Leo Reisman, king of dance orchestra leaders, has secured a market in this city on Middlesex street, where it is his intention to enter into competition with the rest of the merchants in the city. Obviously, his son Leo should appear at the opening, with his orchestra and play such music as benefits the occasion. One number naturally being, "Yes, We Have No Bananas!"

NOTRE DAME ALUMNAE

General Meeting Yesterday of Lowell Notre Dame Alumnae Association

A general meeting of the members of the Lowell Notre Dame Alumnae association was held at the meeting of Notre Dame yesterday afternoon with about 150 members in attendance. The meeting opened at 2:30 o'clock with prayer offered by the Rev. Moderator, Sr. Mary Regius, Mrs. Alice Saunders, president, presided. Several routine matters were disposed of following which plans were made for the sending of $1250. Lowell's quota to the Trinity Altar fund by March 15. The minutes of the previous meeting was read by the secretary, Miss Cecelia Paquette, followed by the reading of the treasurer's report by Miss Carmen Reddick. Both reports were accepted as read. A report of the meeting of the Massachusetts Federation which was held at Worcester on Sunday last was submitted by Mrs. J. W. Sullivan and read by the secretary.

During the course of the evening, Mrs. Mahoney of the class of 1874, now residing in Lawrence, addressed the members on the necessity of holding out a friendly hand to the members of the association in need. She also mentioned the fact that loyalty to the alumnae as well as among its members was the keynote to the prosperity of the association.

Miss Mary Robinson, of Roxbury, first vice-president, also spoke to the gathering, emphatically stressing the great need of charity, friendliness and co-operation among the members of the organization.

Miss Julia Donohoe of Boston also gave a short talk on the spirit which should prevail among the members of the alumnae.

Rev. John J. McGarry, D.C.L., pastor of St. Patrick's church, then addressed the assembly, pointing out the excellent work done by the Catholic Charity bureau during its brief existence locally. "Until very recently the religious have been doing the bulk of the charity work," he said, "but times have changed and now the layfolk must do their share in the great work of aiding and guiding souls to God, both materially and spiritually. Let us all co-operate in this great work, so valuable in the eyes of God. Let us salvage the human wrecks in order that the souls of the children of God may be saved."

Following Dr. McGarry's address, the members filed in the convent chapel, where benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament was held. Dr. McGarry officiated. During the ceremony the "O Sautarist" and "Tantum Ergo" were sung by the assembly. The service closed with the singing of the "Holy God."

The members then repaired to the library where a social hour was held. Tea was served by the hostesses of the afternoon, Mrs. J. J. Skehan and Mrs. Owen Monahan. The hospitality committee served refreshments under the direction of Mrs. C. W. Holmes, chairman, assisted by Mrs. J. J. Cassidy, Mrs. W. R. Bagshaw, Miss Katherine Burns, Miss Louise Mahoney, Mrs. E. J. Callahan, Mrs. Mary Devine, Mrs. Elias J. McQuade, Miss Catherine Scannel, Miss Gertrude O'Brien and Miss Annie Donohoe.

THE PROPER SEASON

Summer time was made for lovers;
When the moonlight gently hovers
O'er a world sublime,
Full of places meant for kisses
Which the blind world wholly misses;
Summer's lover time.

Autumn time is sweetheart season,
Brisk air gives an ample reason
When hearts beat in rhyme
For a ride or stroll together
In the golden sunny weather;
Autumn's lover time.

Winter time was made for lovers,
When the snow about us hovers
Then the weather's prime
For a two-some in the ingle,
(Where's the fun in being single?)
Winter's lover time.

Spring! Ah, Spring is time for mating,
When the air is palpitating
With a leader thrall;
Study of the facts discovers
All the year was made for lovers
And—they use it all!

Admiral Benson Speaks Here

of the poor throughout the centuries of her history. Her priesthood, has needed but the whisper of distress to marshal all available resources for prompt and comforting service where ever it was needed. Religious communities, countless institutions, countless organizations of men and women have obeyed the impulse of divine charity and have ennobled themselves and commended the church to a doubting world. Your Catholic Women's league is one of these agencies that operate by the impulse of faith and act under the pressure of spiritual sympathy in serving, as an unconsecrated priesthood might serve, in the low valleys of misery and baffled life. You honor and strengthen yourselves when you come together in numbers to serve these, the least brethren of Christ.

Service of Weakness

You bring your strength to the service of weakness. You prefer the volunteer service of inspired love rather than the cumbersome way of uncertain laws that give uncertain service where it is greatly needed. You are impressed by the teaching of Christ which confers the distinction of singular precedence to charity, in the Christian life. You thus take on through origin and association a social and spiritual prestige that makes you an honor to your city, a treasure to your church, a tower of strength to those who have need of your help.

May I be permitted now to interpret hurriedly the spiritual and social significance of your work.

In a world that is bulled frankly upon the appeal to selfishness, you foster the practice of unselfishness. In a world that sanctions the principles of getting wealth, you seek the glories of giving. In a world that witnesses widening estrangement of social classes, you effect their reunion at many points and send the splendor of the rainbow of human brotherhood to cross the chasm that separates classes from one another.

You are spiritually minded, patient, thoughtful and helpful. You know that society has need of this type of ways; that she has supreme need of it now.

For your wider guidance in the great things that you do and in order to commend the faith and the church that inspire you, I venture to offer some suggestions that may, I hope, help you in the thorough doing of the work that you have in hand.

Noblesse oblige. Rank has its obligations. If I attempt to set before you the splendor of the Christian charity that inspires you and the divinity of the works that you undertake, I do so not to praise you but to pledge you to efforts that are worthy of your graces.

In doing your charity, this best of all services, you must hold yourself obliged to give your best always. It would be an indignity were you to be careless in your methods, indifferent to results, temperamental in your views and narrow in your interpretations. If you are in a sense attorneys for the poor, you must argue their case well. You must know their needs not by way of impressions or rumors or guesses. You must know them through careful study, accurate understanding, scholarly reach of information. You must then adapt your methods to your knowledge and this adaptation must be the result of careful, collective thinking and foresight just as we in the navy but careful thinking and cautious foresight into every campaign that we project.

And, again, as in the navy we send official observers who are carefully trained to study naval administration and strategy in friendly countries, you must send your careful observers to visit and to consult other experts in the field in order that you may incorporate into your service every atom of approved wisdom to be found in theirs.

At the Front Line

And, furthermore, as we in the navy never hesitate to discard a warship when its type is obsolete, or to send it back to humbler service while we keep our ships of the line up to the farthest point reached by progress in naval construction, you must in like manner be prepared to keep your organization at the front line in every kind of social service that you undertake. You must not hesitate to improve your methods as your social insight is improved. You must not be reluctant, you in particular who have done your work well, to welcome new types of knowledge and insight, new methods, and more far-reaching ways of service as progress in thought and insight into results point out more effective ways of serving the poor.

You must train yourselves to look into the individual or the single family to find all of the problems that nestle there. You must look beyond individual relief to prevention, beyond the service of one dependent family to the service of all dependent families that come within the reach of your solicitude. You must recognize the point up to which volunteer effort is adequate and you must make it adequate to the fullest possible limit. And when you find that the complexities of life transcend the resources of voluntary effort and private means, you must do your best to demand and to direct the helpful legislation that will improve conditions and promote in even this less perfect way, the high purposes that inspire you.

In all of this you must remember that you serve the poor directly; that you serve your country which should be the lover and defender of social justice; that you serve well your beloved church who looks upon you as her missionaries in showing to the world the spirit and the resources that you bring to the service of the poor.

I do not apologize for sketching to you a most exacting plan of action. I do not apologize for asking sacrifice and consecration. I feel it a privilege to be permitted to ask of you to give to your poor, the best of which you are capable, for in doing this I am aiming only to interpret as best I may one of the high obligations of the Christian life, interpreted to you authoritatively by your church.

Members of the Lowell Navy club, in uniform, served as ushers. The league hospitality committee, in charge of the reception, was composed of the following:

Chairman, Miss Mary D. Laug; Mrs. P. H. Bromahan, Mrs. R. J. Callahan, Mrs. J. T. Donehue, Mrs. F. Lamoureux, Mrs. F. T. Morissette, Mrs. M. J. Sharkey, Mrs. George Caisse, Mrs. Jeremiah Connors, Mrs. J. J. Higgins, Mrs. D. Mahoney, Mrs. J. H. Murphy, Mrs. D. T. Sullivan, Misses Alice T. Lee, Eva Blanchard, Clotilda Delany, Katherine F. McCarthy, Margaret Tancred, Mary Boyle, Etta Courtney, Anne Duffy and Elizabeth O'Connor.

EXERCISES AT THE K. OF C. ROOMS

The distinguished visitor arrived in Lowell at 10:40 a. m. and was met at the Middlesex street depot by Grand Knight Frank A. Groves and Lecturer Edward P. Slattery, Jr. His first stop was at St. Margaret's church, where he attended high mass at 11 o'clock, and was then escorted to the York club for luncheon.

Shortly before 3 o'clock in the afternoon, the admiral was taken on a tour of the city, visiting the Auditorium and other main points of interest and expressing admiration for the city's beauty spots. At 3:30, he arrived at the K. of C. building in Patton street and was cordially greeted by several hundred members. The rooms were appropriately decorated in the national colors.

The reception exercises were held in the assembly hall, with Lecturer Slattery presiding. Previous to the speaking program, the entire gathering stood and sang "America." In presenting the speaker, Mr. Slattery said it was a great pleasure for the Knights of Columbus to have as a guest, a man who for nearly fifty years had served his country efficiently and conscientiously. "And I know I speak for you all," said the lecturer in concluding, "when I say that Admiral Benson typifies the real, faithful, Catholic gentleman."

The admiral arose amid enthusiastic applause and delivered a brief but impressive talk on citizenship, the work of the Knights of Columbus in the World war and the building up of community spirit. He was followed by Rev. Daniel J. Heffernan, chaplain of Lowell council, Knights of Columbus, who told the members to remember always that two things—God and patriotism—go together, patriotism, because it is love of country, and love of country, because it goes back to the source of all love, God.

"There are two things touched upon by Admiral Benson that are important," he said, "and those two things are example and toleration. The man who lives honorably and above suspicion, as Admiral Benson does, finds it easy to live his life, although often called upon to make sacrifices. Let us, therefore, be dutiful to God, to country, and to the Knights of Columbus which we represent, and the future will be secure." At the conclusion of Fr. Heffernan's inspiring talk, the assemblage joined in the singing of "The Star Spangled Banner," after which the admiral stood at the exit and shook hands with each member individually.

Delicate Art Work by Man Whose Hands Were Crippled

Interesting and exceedingly pretty art work is being made by Mr. Wilbur J. Rogers of 11 Waban St., Natick, Mass., whose hands were once crippled with rheumatism and who was confined to a wheel chair. It is evident from the work Mr. Rogers accomplishes that his hands are in perfect condition. He is now able to go about almost as well as ever, having discarded his wheel chair. He claims a preparation called Weldon's enabled him to enjoy life once more without the terrible pains of rheumatism. His recovery has attracted much attention in his home town.

Weldon's is for sale at Dows' and other good drug stores. A book explaining more about it is now being sent free upon request to the Weldon Co., 132 Boylston St., Boston, Mass.—Adv.

NOVENA IN HONOR OF IMMACULATE CONCEPTION AT ST. PATRICK'S

Fr. McDonough Urges Discontinuance of the So-Called "Mock Marriage" at Parties and Social Gatherings
—News of the Catholic Churches

A novena in honor of the Immaculate Conception will begin in St. Patrick's church next Friday evening at 7 o'clock, according to announcement made at all the masses yesterday. Special services will be held each evening. The university extension classes for men and women are progressing along favorable lines, unusual interest being displayed by those anxious to derive the benefits from such an undertaking.

At the 11 o'clock mass Fr. McDonough preached an able sermon on the subject of the day. In the course of instructions previous to the sermon Fr. McDonough took occasion to speak about the so-called "mock marriage" now so very much in vogue at parties and social gatherings. He said that the mock marriage was a travesty on one of the most sacred sacraments of the church and he sincerely hoped that the people of St. Patrick's and other parishes throughout the city would refrain in the future from indulging in mock marriages.

In the congregation at the 11 o'clock mass in St. Margaret's church yesterday was Rear Admiral Benson, who went to mass directly upon his arrival in Lowell. He was accompanied by Mr. Slaughter, president of the League of Catholic Women. Grand Knight Frank A. Graves and St. P. Slattery, Jr., lecturer of Lowell Council, K. of C. Rev. William P. Brennan celebrated the mass, while the sermon was delivered by Rev. Charles J. Galigan, pastor.

The annual "Donation Day" of St. Peter's orphanage will be held next Saturday afternoon. All manner of gifts will be gratefully received. Tea will be served at 3 o'clock and a musical program, under the direction of Katherine V. Hennessy, will be rendered.

The O.M.E. Cadets and the Children of Mary sodality received communion in a body in the Church of the Sacred Heart yesterday.

A Thanksgiving party will be held in the school hall in Moore street to-night, at which time several valuable articles will be raffled off. A musical program has been arranged.

The Guild of the Little Flower of Jesus will meet Wednesday afternoon and will be addressed by the chaplain and pastor, Rev. Denis A. Sullivan, O.M.E. The new officers of the Cadet regiment will be announced at the regular meeting next Wednesday evening.

At St. Columba's church yesterday morning Rev. Cornelius J. Cotter celebrated the 7 and 8 o'clock masses. The members of the married ladies' sodality received communion in a body at the 7 o'clock mass. The 10 and 11 o'clock masses were celebrated by the pastor, Rev. John J. Powers. Sunday school was held at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The usual Sunday devotion to St. Bridget were held in the evening, the services closing with benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament.

At the 5 o'clock mass in the Immaculate Conception church yesterday, members of the Junior Holy Name and the senior branch of the Children of Mary received communion. They held their regular meeting yesterday afternoon. The annual mission for the women of the parish will open next Sunday and continue for one week.

The Girls' sodality of St. Peter's church received communion at the 8:30 o'clock mass in that church yesterday. The mass was celebrated by Rev. John M. Mahon, who was assisted in giving communion by Rev. Daniel J. Heffernan.

The Immaculate Conception sodality of St. Michael's church will meet tomorrow evening, as will St. Michael's Charity Guild in preparation for the annual Christmas sale, which will be held on Dec. 6, 7 and 8.

The Holy Rosary sodality will receive communion at the 8 o'clock mass next Sunday.

The Children of Mary sodality and the Angel Guardian sodality received communion at the 7 o'clock mass in St. Jeanne d'Arc church yesterday. The annual mission for the young women of the parish opened yesterday afternoon and will be brought to a close next Sunday.

The women of St. Joseph's parish received communion at the 7:30 o'clock mass in that church yesterday. In the afternoon at 3 o'clock, vespers were held.

The masses in St. Moric's church in South Lowell yesterday were celebrated by Rev. Guillaume Ouellette, O.M.E. Members of St. Anne's sodality received communion at the 7:30 o'clock mass.

The regular meeting of the Angel Guardian sodality of St. Jean Baptiste church was held yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The members of St. Anne's sodality received communion at the 7 o'clock mass yesterday morning, and held their monthly meeting in the afternoon.

The Zouaves and the boys of the Parish received communion in Notre Dame de Lourdes church at the 7:30 o'clock mass yesterday.

The parishioners of St. John's church, North Chelmsford, yesterday had an opportunity to hear their newly appointed pastor, Rev. John J. Crane, S.T.L., who preached at all masses.

In his sermon Father Crane expressed his joy at being able to serve in the same parish in which his schoolmate, Father Kenney, who so faithfully served, saying that he hoped to be able to do at least half of what his friend, Father Kenney, predicted he would do. Father Crane also stated that as soon as possible he would visit the parishioners at their homes and make their personal acquaintance as well as that of the children.

Pacific Coast's Latest Sensation, Halfback Stockton of Gonzaga

HOUSTON STOCKTON

When Gonzaga University of Spokane, Idaho, defeated the University of Washington at the dedication of the new Detroit stadium, Nov. 23, eastern followers of the major college sport will be given an opportunity of viewing in action the Pacific coast's greatest exponent of the forward pass. It is doubtful if another player in any section boasts the proud passing record of Houston Stockton, Bulldog halfback and field general. At any rate, there are no figures available which give anyone else the record of Stockton.

In 1922, Stockton passed for a total of 1011 yards in eight games, an average of 126 yards a game. The last competing performance of which there is any record is that of Mohandi of Notre Dame in 1921. Mohandi passed 1185 yards in 11 games, for an average of 107 yards, and this performance was in 1921.

In the first game of the season this year, Stockton's first night pass, a 40-yard pass to Washington state, was successful and netted the Bulldog from four to 35 yards. Stockton's ninth pass was grounded, but his tenth was a 25-yard heave across the Washington state goal line for the second touchdown.

In the Gonzaga-West Virginia game at San Diego last Christmas, Stockton twice shot accurate passes to Charlie Tompkins standing on the easterners' goal line, only to have those passes dropped. Both were long shots, which would have boosted his average materially, and both would have meant touchdowns and West Virginia's defeat. With these two errors the Bulldog passed a total of 148 yards in the last quarter of that game. Stockton is not only a passer, de luxe and field general, he is one of the finest all-round backfield men on the coast this year. He is a splendid example of the triple threat, and Walter Camp cannot afford to select Stockton much to Stockton's splendid work as it is to the coaching of "Gus" Corais, former Notre Dame star, that the Gonzaga Bulldog is known as "The Notre Dame of the west."

You Can Do It Better With Gas

Will Your Gas Range Do This?

LET'S Pretend it's Thanksgiving Day. The family is going to the matinee, and friends are coming for six o'clock dinner. It's the maid's day off. What will you do? "Why—there's only one answer," you say, "stay home and cook the dinner." And your answer is quite correct, unless you own a New Process Gas Range equipped with the

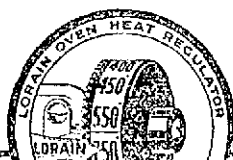

LORAIN OVEN HEAT REGULATOR

You see, women who own Lorain-equipped Gas Ranges can cook a Whole Meal—soup, vegetables, meat and dessert—in the oven at one time. While the meal is cooking they can go to the matinee, football game, visiting, or do other work about the house for three, four or five hours.

At the end of the pre-determined time the entire dinner will be found deliciously done and ready to serve—and all cooked without spending one minute in the kitchen.

Now, will your gas range do that? Or will it do any of these things? Does it enable you to do all your canning in the oven by the sterilization process—the easiest, surest, quickest and best way to can.

One easy turn of the Lorain Red Wheel gives you a choice of 44 pre-set and controlled oven heats for any kind of oven cooking or baking.

And, are you absolutely certain every time you place a pie, a cake, cookies, biscuits or bread in the oven that they'll come out "just right" every time?

If you can't do these things with your gas range you should be willing to make most any sacrifice to buy one equipped with the Lorain Oven Heat Regulator, which makes all these things possible.

We'll be glad to explain and demonstrate the remarkable advantages of the Lorain Oven Heat Regulator, the device that measures and automatically controls the heat of the oven. Come to our store and learn for yourself.

New Process Gas Ranges are Lorain-equipped

New Process gas ranges may be had in full equipped or semi-trimmed. You will like their plain, straight lines. No trouble in keeping clean—as easy to wash as a dish. No upkeep expense—New Process ranges are noted for their durability. Patented top burners give a whirling flame which concentrates the heat on the bottom of the cooking vessel—no waste of heat. Complete and modern in all details. Ask any New Process Owner.

SHOW FORBES WAS A DESERTER

Forbes, former director of the Veterans' Bureau, was dropped from the rolls of the army as deserter, were turned over to the Senate Veterans' committee today by the department. The record, sent to the committee at its request, also was said to show that later Forbes was apprehended, served out his term of enlistment and was discharged without having been brought to trial.

owned and operated by Arsenal, were Mrs. Bertha Geoffrey, 25 years old and mother of a six-year-old girl.

Frederick, who makes her home at 61 Queen street, was operated upon early this morning because of serious internal injuries. She has a slim chance of living. Miss Curtis, a maid in the house, was also injured, but is recovering. It may be necessary to operate on her later in the day.

Three autos, one of them a truck, figured in the weird accident. With Arsenal in his coupe was Sullivan and the two women. One woman was sitting between the two men and the other was on Sullivan's lap. The car rocked with the odor of tobacco and liquor.

The theoretical reconstruction made of the accident by Police Officer Curtis at Tynemouth is that in the heavy dusk Arsenal failed to see a two-ton truck just ahead of him, and bound in the same direction, until he was almost upon it.

Then he is presumed to have suddenly twisted his car to the left to clear and pass the truck. The overhanging tailboard of the truck is believed to have become caught in the windshield of Arsenal's car and snubbed it to the left of the road, tearing off the top at the same time. The driver was handicapped greatly by lack of operating room.

touring model, was bound in this direction and was about to pass the truck. Before Johnson could apply his brakes the Ford driven by Arsenal was struck a heavy broadside blow. The four occupants were all hurled through space. Sullivan landed over fifteen feet away. Johnson sustained a fracture of the knee when his foot became caught between his foot brake and clutch pedal as he tried to halt his car.

Motorman Chief Rescuer

An electric car driven by Michael O'Hara had passed the scene of the accident but a few moments before and was proceeding along the trolley company's right of way when O'Hara heard the crash that attended the smash. He returned, thinking he might be able to give some assistance.

All five victims were loaded on the trolley car and O'Hara started full speed ahead for the nearest physician. Dr. F. D. Larkin, on Tynemouth, the Lowell police were phoned and the doctor was dispatched and requested to await the arrival of the trolley. Sullivan did while aboard the trolley car.

The truck which figured in the accident is owned by a Wyss of Chelsea and was driven by his son, Samuel. It is regularly on a Boston-Salem run and passes through Tynemouth daily.

Persons who arrived at the scene shortly after the accident say that the tail-light of the truck was found to be lighted and visible for a considerable distance.

ALLEGED GUNMAN PARKER FUND LECTURE UNDER GUARD

Barlow M. Diamond Arrested as One of Holdup Men
Who Killed Two in N. Y.

Two Employees of New York
Bank Shot to Death and $43,000 in Cash Taken

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—Barlow Morris Diamond, a Brooklyn salesman who was arrested last night in the Hotel St. Charles, at Cleveland, as one of three holdup men who shot to death two employees of the West End bank on Nov. 14, and escaped with $43,000 in cash, arrives today under heavy guard to face witnesses who, police say, have identified his picture as that of one of the hold-up men.

In the murder and robbery William S. Barlow, a retired police sergeant, and William H. McLaughlin, a war veteran employed by the bank, were shot down in cold blood without the slightest warning. Their assailants escaped in an automobile driven by a confederate. It was through this car that Diamond's arrest was brought about, after detectives had trailed him through Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington, Toledo and Cleveland.

In the prisoner's pockets at the time of his arrest were found a loaded revolver and $2200, mostly in $20 bills, the denomination of a large part of the money stolen. He had a great deal more than this when he left New York, the detectives said, but spent lavishly on his tour. In Philadelphia, they said, he stopped at the Hotel Lorraine, giving the name of "Schwartz," giving lavish entertainment to a chorus girl and boasting that he was a "stick-up man."

The police first connected him with the case through license plates on the automobile in which the holdup men escaped from the scene of the murder. The plates were issued in a fictitious name, but the application gave the address of a building owned by Diamond's mother. The prisoner once served a term of six months in Connecticut for grand larceny. He added, corresponded with marks left in blood on the door handles of the car. Five witnesses to the crime identified his picture as that of one of the holdup men.

On information supplied over the long distance telephone last night by the detectives who expected within a short time to locate two men believed to have been the other members of the gang.

Illustrated Lecture by Curator of Education at Carnegie Museum

Arthur S. Coggeshall, curator of education at the Carnegie Museum, Pittsburgh, Pa., was the speaker yesterday in the Sunday afternoon series of the Memorial Auditorium. Before an audience that was most satisfying numerically, the talented geologist and scientist told a most interesting story of explorations and discoveries in the waste lands of Utah which have resulted in the unearthing of huge and rare specimens of pre-historic vegetable and flesh-eating animals of the lizard family which lived on the earth six, seven, eight and nine million years ago.

Mr. Coggeshall's talk was illustrated with still and motion pictures which added greatly to its enjoyment and showed very plainly what a vast amount of work the Carnegie organization has done and still is doing in the interests of science.

The several reels of motion pictures shown were taken at the point of recent explorations in the Utah desert where the bones of great animals have been excavated from hard sandstone cliffs and other rock formations after being embedded there for millions of years. In addition there was one reel of motion pictures designed to show several of the greatest of these pre-historic mastodons in their natural surroundings. The animal figures, made out of plastic rubber upon special-plate glass, were shown in real life, the entire series of pictures being excellent proof of the progress of motion photography.

Among the animals shown and described were the Brontosaurus (Thunder Lizard), Qinasaurus (Terrible Lizard), Diplodocus (Double Back), Stegosaurus (Cover Lizard), Triceratops (Three Horns on Face), and Tyrannosaurus (Tyrant Lizard). Some were between 75 and 100 feet in length and weighed as much as 30 and 40 tons. Some were vegetable feeders and others flesh eaters.

The motion pictures showing the Carnegie bone-hunting party at work in the Utah desert were most interesting. The point of exploration was about 150 miles from a railroad and although a quarry and full equipment were established, all the work was done by a mere handful of men. Some of the bones taken out of the rocks weighed four and five tons each. The work of removal was tedious as it demanded the exercise of great care and the use of small chisels and hammers so as not to disturb any of the bone formation being excavated.

Mr. Coggeshall was an intensely interesting speaker and this added not a little to the pleasure of the lecture and its subject. Toward the end of the lecture several still pictures were shown of mammoth skeletons which are on exhibit in the rooms of the Carnegie Museum at Pittsburgh.

In the laboratories of which all work of assembling is done after the bone-hunters excavate the specimens and ship them east.

Spectacular Auto Collision In Gorham Street

Gorham street, therefore, carrying James A. McDonald of 47 Twelfth street, bound for his Boston place of employment, and a passenger elum beside him going to spend the day in the town—Leo McCalla, chief quartermaster of this season's Lowell high school football team, who figured heavily in the rushing game.

McDonald says he saw the Cahill sedan shooting along toward Gorham street out of Elm, but supposed that he could pass him as he had the well known right of way on the Boston thoroughfare.

Cahill insists that he saw McDonald's car, but thought he could slip by freely without grazing anybody and the roads were free from any blockaders on the crossing or side lines.

No one remembers much about what happened when the two cars met with a crash that could be heard all around the courthouse neighborhood. The big square just above the county building is smoothly paved, with a slight incline, and is regarded by pessimists as an ideal place for auto collisions. It was just that this morning.

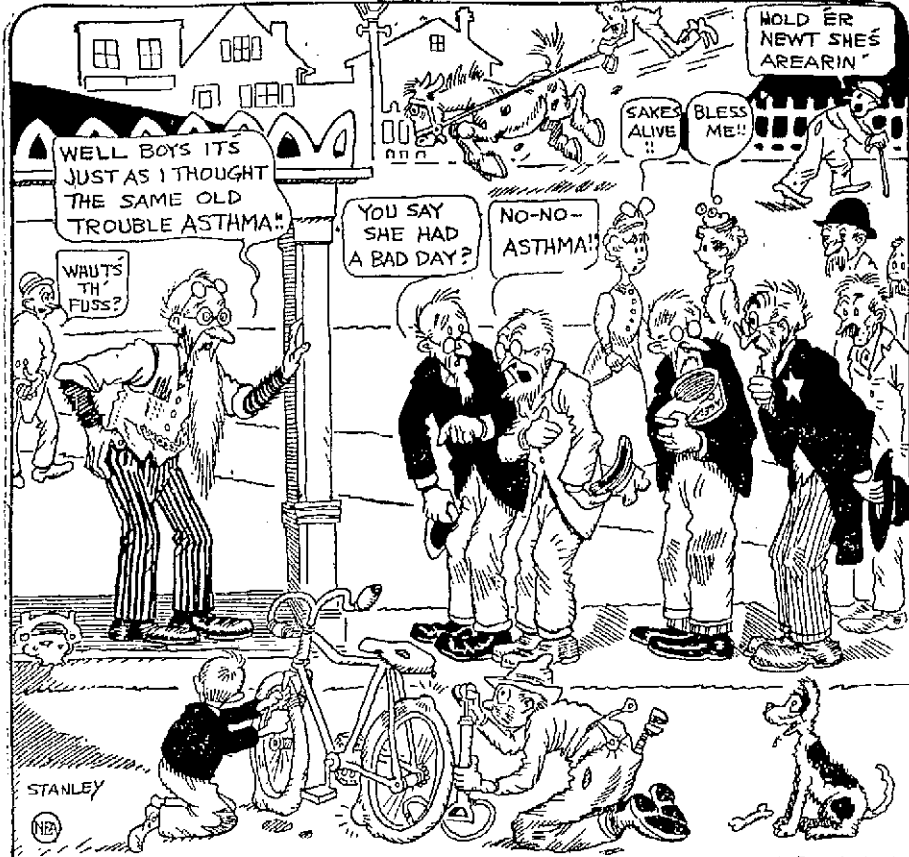

When the two cars met, there were two loud reports that rent the proverbial air, sending pieces of torn rubber skyward and attracting the attention of the multitude. The cars struck sideways and partially head-on, too, in the spectacular crash.

Both cars were lifted directly up, turned on their rear wheels and overturned, bottom side up.

McDonald, who witnessed the collision, says McDonald and "Flash" McCalla crawled through the top of the touring car and slowly rose to their feet. They were unharmed, but outside of the shaking-up by the somersaulting of the car, neither occupant was injured in the slightest way.

The touring car had both wheels crushed on the left side where the sedan struck, smashed along the left side of the sedan, snapping in two and considerable damage done to fenders and portions of the running gear.

FORMING NEW GERMAN CABINET

Efforts of Dr. Albert Had Brought No Result Up to
This Afternoon

Pres. Ebert's Invitation to Albert Has Caused Considerable
Resentment

BERLIN, Nov. 26. (By the Associated Press.)—The efforts of Dr. Heinrich F. Albert, former minister of the treasury, to form a new German cabinet had brought no result up to this afternoon. If a ministry takes office under Dr. Albert's chancellorship, it will do no more than mark the transition stage to a dissolution of the national parliament in the opinion of observers here.

President Ebert's invitation to Dr. Albert to form a new cabinet has caused considerable resentment in national quarters because the president did not invite the nationalists to submit a candidate for the chancellorship, for which post they had the national leader, Dr. Dietrich.

The invitation was extended Dr. Albert Sunday, after the members of the deposed Stresemann ministry and the various parliamentary leaders had formed the president that the present situation in the Reichstag would prevent the installation of a coalition government which would be assured a working majority in the legislative body. The president recalled Dr. Albert and prevailed upon him to reconsider the declaration to assume the chancellorship which he had given after a consultation with the executive last Friday.

The engine did not stop running, however, and the car was in condition to be towed to the repair shops an hour later.

The sedan was a shattered pleasure car when it was righted. The occupants of this vehicle, Cahill and Bailey, managed to get out of the wreckage by crawling through a broken windshield. Glass on the left side of the sedan was smashed out in the collision-overturn and the car otherwise splintered with dents, frame breaks and bent framework. Cahill and Bailey were not hurt.

Spectators called to the scene of the collision helped to right both cars and push them to one side of the square.

The occupants of the damaged cars had no real excuses to offer for the collision, no one accused anyone else of being to blame, and before the curious folks gathered to witness a possible wordy combat between the drivers of the flyers, they saw a quartet of laughing young men without any feelings and anxious to add each other in picking up broken splinters and cleaning up the roadway so anyone wouldn't know what happened.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.—There is little likelihood of any tax reduction which is conditioned upon the defeat of the soldiers' bonus bill, Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the democratic leader, declared today on his return to Washington. Declaring that the expenses incident to adjusted compensation may be borne by a bond issue, Senator Robinson said the passage of bonus legislation would have "wholesome influence on general conditions, particularly in relieving the government of the charge of ingratitude to our soldiers."

Gov. Pinchot Outlines Plan at Conference of Govern- ors of Coal Using States

To Consider "Specific Program" of Legislation to Keep Down Coal Prices

HARRISBURG, Pa., Nov. 26.—Government control of the anthracite coal industry by state and federal action and by a compact between the anthracite consuming states establishing a commission to enforce regulations to be agreed upon by the governors, was proposed by Gov. Pinchot of Pennsylvania in an address prepared for delivery today at a conference of representatives of the chief executives of the hard coal using states.

Such a commission as he proposed, the governor said, "pooling the police powers of the states concerned, could be, in cooperation with federal authority, regulate the whole industry from the mine to the consumer's bin."

Today's conference was called by Gov. Pinchot to consider a "specific program" of legislation designed to keep down coal prices.

DANCE AT BOAT HOUSE THIS EVENING

A dance in aid of the refreshment table of St. Columba's parish will be held at the boat house this evening. The proceeds will be donated to the parish reunion fund and if present indications are to be taken as a sign of success, there will be many couples at the dance, as quite a number of tickets have been sold.

A turkey round-up will be held at the parish hall tomorrow evening, the proceeds also to be donated to the parish reunion fund. Plans for the reunion are rapidly taking shape and the pastor, Rev. John J. Powers, is extremely gratified with the work thus far accomplished.

Next Monday evening a "smoker" will be held at the parish hall under the auspices of the Holy Name society. Rev. Fr. McCormack, of St. Joseph's church, Boston, and Charles "Sandy" Chapman, former overseas secretary of the Knights of Columbus, will be the principal speakers of the evening.

gave a short talk on his feat in swimming the English channel and stated that, as in all walks of life, it was perseverance that won the battle.

The freshmen met in Colum hall under Faculty Manager of Athletics James F. Conway and the three upper classes met in Cyrus W. Irish Auditorium with Headmaster Henry H. Harris in charge. James F. Liston, coach of the football squad, also addressed both gatherings and the football cheers and songs for the Lowell-Lawrence game Thanksgiving were rehearsed.

Mr. Conway was so well pleased with the cheering of the freshmen that he challenged the three upper classes to contest against the freshmen in this. While Headmaster Harris was pleased to receive the challenge he does not think it will be possible to hold such a contest because neither of the high school halls are large enough to hold the entire student body.

LOWELL KNIGHTS WERE REPRESENTED

A delegation of Lowell Fourth Degree Knights of Columbus attended the exemplification of the fourth degree for Western Massachusetts and Connecticut at Hotel Kimball, Springfield, yesterday. It was a brilliant ceremony, K. of C. officials from all sections of New England being present. Among those in attendance at the exemplification and at the dinner which followed at 5:30 were two former Lowell men, Rev. Philip Lee of Turner's Falls and Joseph A. O'Brien, brother of Daniel S. O'Brien of this city. Mr. O'Brien was one of the leading figures in the arrangements and sat at the Lowell table during the dinner. The private dining room of the Kimball.

The Lowell delegation traveled by auto and as they passed Worcester, ran into evidence of the snowstorm which swept the westerly part of the state along the eastern Mohawk valley to Albany.

Rum-Running King Caught
Continued
Perkins of the coast guard was sent aboard the Tomako after her capture. The Lexington and S. men started back to New York with Tomako leading along the rear. Suddenly, it was alleged, the machine guns were trained on Perkins and the Tomako headed east. She opened fire when the cutters pursued her.

The alleged smuggler was overhauled for the second time when she was about 10 miles off shore and Robert Johnston was sent aboard with an armed party of six men. He had to hand struggle followed by fore the Tomako's crew was subdued. Seizure of the Tomako, according to Assistant Solicitor Edward Barnes, was made upon special instructions from the treasury department calling for capture of the Tomako wherever it was found within 12 miles off shore.

King of Run-Runners
NEW YORK, Nov. 25. "Runny Bill" McCoy, whom government agents call the "king of run runners," appears before a United States commissioner today with eight British seamen, crew of the schooner Tomako, charged with smuggling liquor inside the territorial waters of the United States.

The men, who surrendered yesterday after the coastguard cutter Seneca had fired twice across the Tomako's bows, had $100,000 in cash in their pockets and 200 cases of liquor in the hold. They will make their defense, McCoy said, on the fact that the ship was six and a half miles from shore when captured, despite the fact that the 12-mile limit agreement with Great Britain had not been entered into effect.

McCoy, who is said to be under federal indictment for violation of the sought for five months along the Atlantic coast from Maine to Florida, had $100,000 with him when captured. Government agents said this amount was received for 1000 cases of liquor already sold to American bootleggers. The cargo was taken on in the Bahamas.

As he was locked in his cell, McCoy stated defiantly that "the British government will have something to say about the matter." The Tomako, formerly known as the Avoncliff, at one time was reported anchored off New Man's Land, Mass., receiving visits from many small boats.

14 Missing in Mine Explosion
Continued
The company, said he rolled upon the except 14. He added that in all probability some of these 14 were engaged in rescue work about the mine.

Great Disaster Averted
The Chicago, Wilmington & Frankfort Coal Co.'s mine, near West Frankfort, Ill., was the largest mine in the state, and possibly in the world. The explosion probably was caused by gas and a great disaster probably was averted by the barrier pillar system in use in the mine. Mr. Harrington said. The advice received over the company's private wire indicated that the explosion occurred in the northwest corner of the mine, probably about a mile from the shaft.

USHERS WILL HOLD THEIR ANNUAL BALL

All paths will lead to Associate ball tomorrow evening when the ushers of the Strand theatre will hold their second annual ball. The dance program has been completed and indications point to an enjoyable evening with the Minnie-Doyle orchestra furnishing the music.

AT THE THEATRES
It is desired to call to the attention of all Sun readers that daily hereafter there will appear at the bottom of the first news column on the back page the current attractions "At the Theatres" and by consulting it one may tell at a glance what each Lowell theatre has to offer. The program table will change with the change of attractions in motion picture houses.

Advertisers who use The Sun consistently get greater returns on the money invested than through any other Lowell newspaper. There's a reason. The Sun goes into more homes in Lowell and suburbs than any other Lowell paper and ninety per cent. of Sun readers read to other Lowell newspapers.

FASTEST SUB IN WORLD

LONDON, Nov. 26.—The submarine J, which is nearing completion at a Chatham dockyard for the British navy, will be the longest, as well as the fastest submersible craft in the world, according to the Morning Post. She will have a surface speed of 33 knots, thus enabling her to accompany battle-ships when steaming at full speed. The submarine will carry six 5.5 inch guns, an armament said to be unique for an under-sea craft. Her displacement will be 3500 tons. It is recalled that the first British submarine built in 1901, displaced 120 tons and had a surface speed of nine knots.

LONGEST CABLE IN THE WORLD

HAVRE, France, Nov. 26.—The new Franco-American cable, said to be the longest in the world was landed safely yesterday by the cable steamer Stephen. The line will be in operation in a few days.

PLAN WINTER ACTIVITIES

New Programs at Boys' Club
—Boys Selected to Handle Departments

New programs for winter recreational sport programs at the Lowell Boys' club on Dutton street, and other ready for announcement. Radical changes have been made in one or two departments including feature specialties never before attempted at the popular haven for healthy, wide-awake youth. Appointments have just been made for carrying out increased departmental work in many branches, all under the personal direction of Major Walter R. Hayes, club superintendent and physical director.

The 1924 appointments followed a special meeting of the Boys' club directors with co-operating members of the Lowell Rotary club. Among the leaders in the latter organization, long interested in Boys' club activities and who visits the Dutton street quarters regularly to give all possible aid, is Robert W. Thomson.

During the winter season recreational departments will be handled by the following boys selected from a list of high-class records:

Pool room, Bill Sticks. Gymnasium, Danny Shea. Game room, Joe Wrenn.

Danny Sticks will be office boy and Thomas Wrenn handles basketball and handball.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Looby will continue as janitor and matron, respectively.

Assistant to the superintendent Charles W. Barton, who has been with the Boys' club during the past year, has departed temporarily from Dutton street to take an eight-weeks' course of colonial club administrative studies at Columbia university under the federal government vocational training system. He will return early in January and at once resume his duties here.

The attendance at all sessions conducted by the local club has been rapidly increasing again during the past two weeks. More than 1400 devotees of this all-free institution on Dutton street now enjoy all privileges. The Saturday night showers are patronized by several hundreds now, and soap and towels are free to all.

Plans for celebrating "Loyal Boys' Week" are in the making, with Rotarian backing assured and the club executives anxious to elicit public support for the week's observance and special exhibitions.

The library has outgrown its bounds, with new and secondhand volumes arriving weekly and many others waiting to leave not only books for the boys, but other useful gifts including new games. The game department is today a popular place, and replacements of worn-out checkers and dominoes and other pastime necessities are being made.

Sometimes the Boys' club wants a genuine swimming pool. Patrons of the club have long talked of installing one, but nothing has been done. Major Hayes believes that the gymnasium could be as good as any in the land with a good swimming pool close by. Lack of room at the Dutton street building has been about the only reason for no pool, although the useful showers are helping out nicely on Saturday night.

Lowell Boys' club is growing along many interesting new lines. The employment department is branching out monthly. More than 80 healthy, capable Lowell boys were found good positions, either permanent or temporary, last year through the club executive offices. Several boys were given temporary work last week. There is always a "waiting list" at the Dutton street club, showing the desire of many boys to secure employment, earn money and start a bank account, as most of them have done who won good jobs.

Boys between the ages of 5 and 15 years can now have free use of the club quarters.

The Lowell Boys' Club association is now headed by Fred C. Church, Sr.

With Robert W. Thomson, treasurer. Moving pictures are to be shown this winter on Tuesday and Thursday evenings. Doors are open week-days, except Saturdays from 4 to 9.15 p.m. On Saturday the hours are 1 to 9.30. Recent gifts to the splendid library are noted as coming from well known business men engaged in welfare work on the side. Harry Pollard has again remembered the boys with good looks of the right kind. New gym apparatus, including new mats, punching bags and gloves for coming boxing contests, have just been installed by Major Hayes, who is arranging a series of contests to come soon. The club has six excellent welders of the gloves already, with a dozen other lads anxious to get into practice. Boxing bouts would be held on Wednesday evenings. "Amateur Night" comes now on Tuesday, with pictures an added attraction. The Sun has by far the largest circulation of any Lowell paper. Ninety per cent. of Sun readers do not read any other Lowell newspaper. See the point, Mr. Advertiser?

STAGE ALL SET FOR THE Y. M. C. I. ANNUAL

Plans for the presentation of "Under the Spotlight, 1923," the annual show by the Y.M.C.I., were completed at a meeting of that institute yesterday morning.

The reports of the various sub-committees in charge of arrangements were made and every one showed that this year's show is going to be even a greater success than last year's, which was considered the greatest show put on in Lowell by amateurs in many years.

The following were named by President Thomas F. Lyons as a reception committee to work in conjunction with the officers of the institute: Thomas J. Carbett, "Bob" Hart, Charles Stoway, Robert Thomas, Gerald Cahill, Frank Haggerty, Thomas M. A. Higgins, Thomas B. Higgins, Martin Conley, Walter Connors, Timothy P. O'Sullivan and John Shea.

AUTOMOBILE RAN WILD
A machine operated by Walter J. Connors of Lowell, S. H. ran wild on Perry street at 4:45 last night due to some defect in the mechanism and finally was brought to a stop when it crashed into the Lowell Electric Light Corporation's fence on Perry street. A William Doyle of McFarlin avenue, this city, was in the machine with Joseph and several other passengers. The machine was driven from the windshield. He was taken to St. John's hospital for treatment.

THANKSGIVING DANCE
There will be a Thanksgiving dance at the Highland club hall tomorrow evening. "Ma" Hall's orchestra has been engaged to furnish the music and a pleasant evening is expected to those attending. "Ma" Hall will play all the latest New York dance hits featuring what is known as the "rhythm." The latest dance music which is creating quite a stir in social events.

COMMUNITY CHEST IS SUGGESTED HERE

A committee of members of the chamber of commerce has been named by President Edward Fisher to investigate the advisability of starting a "community chest" fund in this city. The committee consists of Elmore I. MacPhie, Charles L. Warren, Robert F. Marden, Samuel H. Thompson and Benjamin S. Ponzner. The first meeting will be held in the chamber building Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

The "community chest" method of raising funds for the various charitable and social organizations in a city has been adopted in many of the larger cities to do away with the old idea of each separate organization conducting a drive of its own. It is felt by those who favor this plan that it will result in more money being obtained for each organization in less time and with considerably less labor to the public.

TODAY'S CASES IN THE DISTRICT COURT

Wilfred L. Paradis of Suffolk street was arrested late Saturday afternoon by Federal Officer John Hall and Officers Maloney, Lenney and Kilroy of the liquor squad when he attempted to frustrate their investigation of his premises, where it was believed liquor was stored. Paradis' collection, however, came so strong that he had to be handcuffed and was taken to the police station on a charge of interfering with officers in the discharge of their duties. In district court this morning, the case was continued until next Friday.

John Buckley was given three chances to go home before he was arrested in Central street yesterday and booked for drunkenness. He pleaded guilty this morning and was fined $10. When Thomas P. Lynch was called on a drunkenness complaint, the probation officer told the court that defendant was making his fifth appearance on this charge. On condition that he keep his promise to get out of a city immediately, he was given a suspended sentence to the state farm.

Fred J. Vallery, drunkenness, was given a similar sentence, while Peter J. Blanchard received a direct sentence of three months to the house of correction. Walter Descheneaux pleaded guilty to illegally selling liquor and paid a fine of $100. John Lyle, who drove his wife and baby out of the house, according to his wife's testimony last Saturday, was given one more chance to stop drinking and was placed under a suspended sentence of five months in the house of correction. He pleaded guilty and was sentenced to the state farm.

Boy T. Kay was arraigned on charges of drunkenness, operating while he was under the influence of liquor and operating without being properly registered. He was continued until December 1. Marie Holbert, drunkenness and operating while under the influence of liquor, was continued until November 20. Joseph St. Hilaire of Sanford, Me., was detained for non-appearance to answer charges of drunkenness, operating while under the influence of liquor and driving without license or registration.

THE NEW OAKLANDS FIRE ENGINE HOUSE

One of the finest brick jobs ever seen in the city now is in progress in the construction of the new Oakland fire engine house, whose walls already stand nearly six feet above the foundation. If the weather during December and January is not too severe, it is believed the house will be well along toward completion the first of February.

It is the brick work, however, that has caused widespread and favorable comment during the past ten days when it became high enough above the foundation to see. Tapestry brick is being used and a Finnish bond is developing by the laying of bricks in headers and stretchers in black mortar with red joints.

So far, with the exception of Saturday, the weather has been ideal for brick work, although black mortar is more sensitive to frost than the white. Foreman Thomas O'Hara, boss mason on the job for contractor Daniel B. Walker, said today that within two or three weeks the walls should be ready for the roof provided December does not bring heavy snows. The design of the house calls for only two feet of wall above the windows.

COLUMBIA GIRLS AT ASSOCIATE HALL

The Columbia Girls, one of the most popular groups of local boys, will conduct a dancing party at Associate Hall tonight. This little group has the reputation of having a capacity audience at its annual party, and tonight promises to be even better, for they have had to secure a larger hall than in previous years. Last year a group of Columbia girls won first prize at a costume party at the Auditorium.

Mr. Arthur Wilfred Hamel and Miss Elizabeth Lachapelle were united in the bonds of matrimony at 4 o'clock this morning in St. Jean's church by Rev. Father E. McNeil, O.M.I. The couple were attended by Mr. Jacques Hamel, father of the bridegroom, and Mr. Adolphe Audette, uncle of the bride. The bride was attired in a beautiful gown of white tulle and wore a veil of rose-point lace, arranged in a ruffled shape and held in place by a band of lilies-of-the-valley. O'Brien of 32 Concord street, and Miss Margaret O'Brien, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph O'Brien, 18 Fenwick avenue, were united in the bonds of matrimony at 4 o'clock this afternoon at the Immaculate Conception rectory by Rev. Owen McDonald, O.M.I. The couple were attended by Mr. John J. O'Brien, brother of the bride, as best man, and Miss Dorothy O'Brien, sister of the bride, as bridesmaid. The bride wore a gown of white tulle and carried a bouquet of lilies and roses. The bridegroom wore a tuxedo. The ceremony was held in the rectory. Mr. and Mrs. O'Brien left on an extended honeymoon trip to New York and points south and upon their return will reside at 125 Gershom street.

THE WEDDING SHOWER
The home of Miss Betty Conley, 30 Ellis avenue, was the scene of a merry and happy party last Friday evening, when about fifty friends of Miss Katherine Conley assembled to shower her with gifts and good wishes in honor of her coming marriage. The house was prettily decorated in the season's colors. Miss Seward received many gifts of silver, glass and linen and a beautiful traveling bag, presented by Mrs. Elizabeth Simpson in behalf of those present. A program of entertainment included a book and wine dance by Miss Josephine Cassidy, solos by Mary McNamara and Katherine Shannon, and violin selections by Miss Riley, accompanied on the piano by Isabel Watson and Marion O'Neil. After a delicious luncheon, the party broke up with wishes for the bride and groom. In closing remarks, the success of the evening was due to the efforts of Betty Conley and Mrs. B. Brown.

WERE MARRIED THIRTY-FIVE YEARS AGO TODAY

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel F. Sullivan, of 105 Moore street are today quietly observing the 35th anniversary of their marriage. It was on the 25th of November, 1888, that Father Lavin, of the Sacred Heart rectory, joined in matrimony Miss Winifred Fahy and Daniel Sullivan. The bride was Miss Margaret Donohue and the best man was Mr. Dennis Harrington.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Sullivan were born in Lowell and have lived here all their lives. They have four children living: John J. Sullivan, Edward F. Sullivan, Daniel F. Sullivan, Jr., and Mabel W. Sullivan. Until about 1900, Mr. Sullivan was starter for the street railway company, and since that time has been identified with the wholesale hardware business, as the senior member of the firm of D. F. Sullivan and Co., 11 Newmarket street. The years have weakened very lightly upon Mr. and Mrs. Sullivan and their appearance belies the number of years that have rolled past since they started upon the great adventure. They are planning upon making an formal observance of the day and have been hiding from their friends today's anniversary in order that they might enjoy it quietly and together.

THANKSGIVING DAY AT CHILDREN'S HOME

About thirty boys and girls have been asking: "What are we going to have for Thanksgiving Day?" The Children's Home menu, given out today by Miss O'Leary, is as follows: Roast turkey, roast chicken, vegetables of all kinds, puddings, pies, fruits, jellies, ice cream, cakes, candy and assorted nuts.

HOLDS SUNDAY SALE NOT A LEGAL ISSUE

A lawsuit involving alleged deceit in the sale of land is in hearing before Judge Nelson T. Brown in jury-waived superior court here today. Mikal Lih is plaintiff and John Rignin defendant. Both live in Carlisle and it is claimed by the plaintiff that on Aug. 8, 1922, he purchased from defendant seventy acres of land in Carlisle paying $2500. The defendant, however, has been secretly selling the land to the plaintiff for $7500 additional.

Plaintiff claims that he was told by the defendant that a certain wood lot, pointed out while making a tour of the property prior to purchasing, was included in this purchase. It now turns out this particular lot is and was the property of another.

SIX INCH SNOW FELL

PITTSFIELD, Nov. 25.—There was a high fall of snow here yesterday which is somewhat unusual for this time of the year, but not unlike that which has not been recorded.

STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—The stock market ushered in the new week with rising prices, initial buying power being most effective in the tobacco, sugar, oil and specialties. Sugar, up 1, and National Supply, up 1/2, established new 1923 tops which Cabinet dropped 3/4 to a new low record for the year. American Sugar and General Chemical advanced 1/2, and 1 point, respectively.

Tobacco merchandising and chemical shares also were well bought in the early dealings. Ralls were practically neglected. Tidewater Oil and Producers & Refiners each advanced 1/2. Tidewater Chemical 1/2 while gains of 1 to 2 points were registered by such issues as Du Pont, American Can, American Sugar Refining, Corn Products, National Biscuit, and others. Allied Chemical, May Department Stores and Associated Dry Goods, Maxwell A. and U. S. East from Pipe, each dropped a point and Baldwin yielded 3/4. Foreign exchange opened higher.

Active buying of New York Central, Reading and Chesapeake & Ohio in the afternoon was accompanied by some noted sales in various specialties. United Cigar Stores advanced 1/2, Atlantic Refining 1/2, Davison Chemical 1/2, Tidewater Oil 1/2, American Tobacco 1/2, and Pierce Arrow 1/2.

The upward trend in the industrial group, based largely on speculative expectation of higher prices, was not reflected in the market for the selling of Maxwell Motors A, which broke 4 1/2 points. U. S. Rubber, Jones Brothers Tea, Schulte and several less active shares also slipped a point or more. The market closed with a mid-day rally. The general list started upward again with the low-priced oil and investment rails leading the advance. Davison Chemical extended its gain to 1 point and 1/2. United Cigar Stores, American Tobacco, Mack Truck, Willys Overland preferred and Consolidated lead two or more points above Saturday's closing prices. Call money opened at 3 1/2.

The closing was strong. Professional operators on the long side of the market bought the leading issues more freely in the late dealing. New York Central touched a new high for the year and Baldwin a new top on the current movement.

LIQUOR KILLS SEVEN IN PITTSBURGH

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 26.—Seven deaths in as many days caused by liquor put on the market to meet the pre-holiday demand, today brought united action from city, county and federal authorities. The seasonal demand, police say, has resulted in bootleggers working overtime shifts to prepare liquor with a "kick" from medicated alcohol, hastily distilled mash with a high percentage of fusel oil and synthetic combinations.

DIRECT TO YOU

Gas is sold direct from the producer (the gas company) to you, without any middleman, as in most businesses, so that the housewife, herself, regulates her own gas bills.

When she wishes to "purchase" gas for the cooking of a meal, or other household need, she simply turns a lever and strikes a match, or presses a button. When she wishes to stop "buying" she turns the lever again, the gas flow stops, and her "purchase" is ended. Thus she has complete supervision over her gas bills at all times.

that I was left free to develop the topic along the lines of my own experience and preferences. I shall, therefore, explain hurriedly the sense in which I take the title, and I shall gladly express my views within the limits thus set down.

In naval warfare as I am acquainted with it, we include under the term strategy, two elements, views and operations. We interpret the experience of the past. We examine carefully the resources, habits of mind, methods and tendencies of the enemy. We draw our conclusions and then adapt judgment and project plans in accordance with these. We issue directions. We anticipate situations and depend upon officers and men to show unqualified obedience, prompt decision, and resourcefulness in situations not foreseen. We then go into battle with energy and confidence. The sum total of our convictions, insight and conclusions constitutes our philosophy of warfare. Our operations in conflict are the expression of that philosophy in terms of action.

The term "philosophy" in relation to social service, indicates the sum total of fundamental views that guide our interpretations and direct our action. It is the philosophy of the common man and would serve it well. By "social service" I understand the whole range of unselfish and idealistic activity by which the individual serves the community, the strong classes serve the weak classes, the rich serve the poor, the able-bodied serve the infirm, the healthy serve the sick, the young serve the old, the living serve the dead. It is the philosophy of the common man and would serve it well. By "social strategy" I understand the whole range of unselfish and idealistic activity by which the individual serves the community, the strong classes serve the weak classes, the rich serve the poor, the able-bodied serve the infirm, the healthy serve the sick, the young serve the old, the living serve the dead. It is the philosophy of the common man and would serve it well.

In naval operations every man from the one who cares for engines or sweeps the deck of the battleship or takes the helm, to the officer in command of the fleet, draws enthusiasm from the thought of serving his country and gains his personal estimate of himself from feeling that he is part of a great agency in the life of the nation. Likewise, every single worker in the field of Catholic social service must draw inspiration from the larger thought of interpreting the stories of faith and serving his fellow-men in the spirit of Christian love. What, then, are the principles of Catholic philosophy as these guide us in social service? What are the aims and methods that govern us in the service that we offer, as Catholics, to human society?

Catholic Principles
Our Catholic principles may be stated simply. We believe profoundly in the spiritual quality of man and in his immortal destiny in God. We believe in divine revelation, in the divinity and authority of Jesus Christ as Head of the race, Redeemer and Friend. We believe in the divine institution of the church and in the exalted sanctions of her authority as custodian and interpreter of revelation. We believe in the supernatural life, in the sacramental distribution of grace and in the intimate personal role of divine grace in every single relation in life. We believe in the law of human brotherhood as fundamental in social life. We hold that life is more than valiant, that service is nobler than self-indulgence, that strength is sanctified by serving weakness, and that men are nobler in proportion as they are unselfish.

We hold that all life is in a real sense spiritual, that the relation of statesman to citizen, of employer to laborer, of democrat to republican, of legislator to subject, is of a spiritual quality and that the laws of spiritual life, the principles of divine revelation are as binding here as they are when a man kneels to worship his God in formal prayer.

We believe also that the moral and spiritual forces are component parts of our democracy and that education, religion and public opinion, rooted as they should be in spiritual vision, have a primary role in maintaining the social order, in directing human relations, in disciplining ambition and motive and in promoting social peace. We much prefer to make an employer humane by appealing to his conscience rather than to civil law. We much prefer to promote voluntary effort in the service of all of the common purposes of life rather than encourage the less noble way of legislation. Hence it is that we appeal so constantly for the strengthening of moral and social forces rather than such headlong to ask interference by the state. We seek as others do to promote social justice, to assure comfort and dignity of life, but our philosophy leads us to prefer the way of voluntary effort when it is possible.

Common Welfare Service

And, therefore, we hold that all men and all women who have strength, insight or wisdom over and above what they need to meet their personal, domestic and spiritual obligations are obliged by force of the higher law of Christian life to contribute of their surplus strength to the service of the common welfare. If we are right in holding this Christian interpretation of the stewardship of strength, Christianity must tell the cultured what they owe to the illiterate; Christianity must tell the educated the secrets of service by which they come to the aid of their less fortunate brethren; Christianity must tell the possessors of wealth what they should do for the common welfare in order that they may vindicate in the sight of God their possession and management of property as a spiritual experience in life.

We hold furthermore in our Catholic philosophy that human personality is sacred, that personal rights are in last analysis defined but not created by society; and that the individual has a clearly defined right to an opportunity of personal development and refinement, free from excessive fear, free from excessive risk, free from excessive submission to stronger competitors who may be victims of inferior selfishness.

And finally, we hold that the church has in addition to her spiritual mission to souls, a definite and far-reaching role in promoting social welfare, in correcting erroneous social principles and in helping mightily to bring individuals happiness within the reach of increasing numbers. We hold that every Catholic by reason of his faith and his privileges should accept the fact that it is in him to the service of the common welfare in order that justice may prevail, in order that spiritual values may be respected, in order that the discipline of life founded upon faith may be vindicated by very believers worthy of the name.

This is brief, my understanding of the Catholic philosophy that underlies all social service. A theorist would define these principles more accurately and with greater simplification. I hope that I am faithful to my teaching in stating this as my understanding of Catholic philosophy. I hope that in stating these as my social convictions, I am but stating facts.

Fact and Condition
Coming now from the realm of philosophy to that of fact and condition, I wish to direct your attention to the situation that confronts us. The half of the world on these diverse matters, the Catholic church, is weakening. It is the duty of Catholics to show forth the true flower of our faith in our personal life, in all of our attitudes toward life, in all of our activity and relations in life.

Every Catholic is called upon, each in his own circle, to be a witness to his faith by his deeds, to show forth to the individual and to the doubting world, the glorious deposit of faith that he possesses by the life of faith, and to show its actual social value in transforming and refining life.

The church as a divine teacher commands herself, as I, as a convert well know, through arguments drawn from reason, history and revelation. But she must also command herself today, as she did in the past, by the types of men and women that she produces, by the wholeness of their influence, by their outstanding service to all of the purposes that enable life. The Catholic business man, the Catholic professional man, the Catholic teacher, the Catholic statesman, the Catholic employer, the Catholic labor leader, all called upon specifically to be missionaries. Any one of these who ignores his obligation or is indifferent to it, violates the philosophy of Catholic social service and robs society no less than the church of its distinct and intended contribution to the peace and redemption of life.

The philosophy of Catholic social service must be brought to bear upon our problems of strength, as well as our problem of weakness. The possessors of great industrial, social and political power must learn from the Christian law the principles that will discipline self-seeking, will show them the fallacies that mislead them and write in letters of fire that cover the garments, in regulations that must hold them to perfect self-discipline and the idealism as they administer their power in the interests of the common welfare, intelligently understood. The Christian view of the state, the Christian view of property, the Christian view of duties of each station in life must be known and respected as faithfully as the economic laws of business, the interpretations of political science and the demands of social progress.

On the other hand, the church seeks in the reach of her spiritual vision of life the appalling problems of weakness that so harass the mind of the world, invite so much justified radical criticism and invite awakened minds to challenge the foundations of government, property, industry and law.

We know there are millions who are under-paid and under-nourished, and are victims of a violent economic fear. We know that there are children working who ought to be in school. We know that there are children with many physical defects whose health should receive intelligent care. We know that there are orphans who need us, weary mothers who long for the comfort that we can give, sinful and reckless and indifferent men who might have been noble had they had a chance. We know that there might be a poverty that is refined and not without its compensations. But we see the poverty that connotes misery, sin, coarseness, helplessness and inertia. The Catholic philosophy of social service drives us straight toward this kind of poverty and demands of us effort without delay, sacrifice, without reluctance, industry without ceasing, until we have changed conditions and interpreted our principles in solemn pledge to these, the disinherited of the earth.

My Experience is that
DR. CALDWELL'S
SYRUP PEPsin
Is just what you need

This Will Make Digestion Easy

WHAT the dyspeptic needs is not soda and charcoal and breath perfumes but a medicine that will help his bowels to move regularly, for dyspepsia and constipation are allied. If you will take Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin systematically as the directions on the package call for you will soon digest your food properly and pass it out normally, and heartburn, belching, dizziness, nervousness and bloating will vanish. In time you can dispense with all medicines as Syrup Pepsin will have exercised the intestinal and stomach muscles so they act for themselves. Mr. Lewis F. Schultz of Resnor, Ia., Mrs. Victor Knodler of 3625 Bank St., Louisville, Ky., and hosts of others will verify this.

World Acclaims Success

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is the prescription of a well-known physician of that name who practiced successfully for 47 years. It has been on the market thirty years and is today the largest selling liquid laxative in the world. Thousands of families have it in their medicine chest ready when any members show signs of dyspepsia, constipation, torpid liver, sour stomach, biliousness, coated tongue, offensive breath, headaches and such ailments that indicate deranged stomach and bowels. Many serious diseases are prevented by this timely aid.

Formula Plainly Stated

Have no hesitancy giving Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin to any one young or old. It is a mild, gentle laxative free from narcotics. It will not cramp or gripe. The formula is on the package, a compound of Egyptian senna with pepsin and simple aromatics. A bottle can be had at any drug store and averages less than a cent a dose. Economical for families and fully guaranteed. You will find it a great improvement in taste and action over castor oil, or "candy cathartics" made from coal-tar that cause skin diseases, rashes, that loosen the teeth, salts in water or powder that concentrate the blood and dry the skin.

LOCKS AND CANALS IMPROVE LAND FOR SCHOOL CHILDREN

No Foundation for Report That the Corporation Was Planning to Develop Property for Own Use—
Engineer Safford Explains Situation

Bartlett Training school's playground near Wamsland street, popularly called "Canal Field," actually owned by the Locks and Canals corporation, but "captured" a long time ago and held by schoolboys "right of eminent domain" is not to be disturbed by the waterway project, not this year or next either.

The corporation said, recalled, is often a negligible quantity, as some corporations go. When little children call, however, you know how it is. Youth must be served, even at a corporation whose dignity demands little trifling along sentiments of the yellow band.

Reports have been circulated in Lowell during the past week to the effect that the corporation was planning to develop the large property schoolyards running down to the boundary line separating the city and corporation lands. It was to be expected that children would not miss an opportunity to frolic on the open land just outside their own domain whenever possible.

"The Locks and Canals has been fully cognizant of this fact for many years. The land running along the canal way, so-called, and up to the canal way, is today, as it has been in the past, a favorite playground for the school children.

"The proprietors have never had any desire to withdraw permission for these children to play there to their hearts' content. In fact, no permission was asked or required. It is a favorite area for healthy recreation, the proprietors have endeavored to establish adequate protective requirements to prevent the children from playing too near the canal, and have created a long row of high posts covered with wire as a safeguard so that the school pupils will not creep along the canal banks.

"We have been pleased to do this, willing at all times to have the Bartlett school pupils adapt and use this kind of land as a playground. We have endeavored to keep the land in condition for such use at all times. Some deep grading has been done, roadways have been repaired, and recently many loads of stones have been spread and leveled down to improve the condition

Asked if the proprietors had any plans for developing the property along other lines, or constructing a street of better foundation and usefulness than the one now running rather aimlessly across the "canal field," as the school pupils and instructors all call it, Engineer Safford said no innovations had been planned and there was nothing in the report that a new highway was contemplated from Broadway to Pawtucket, so far as the Locks and Canals proprietors were concerned.

"We have been endeavoring to make the present roadway more passable by filling in where storms have excavated and left some sections of the canal road in a condition far from comfortably passable," Mr. Safford added. He admitted, when questioned, that this work was not demanded by anyone, that it did not have to be done, but that the proprietors of the locks and Canals were doing it solely to benefit people who frequently use the canal road in transporting traffic. "This is not a highway at all in the sense that it is a public way, but the Locks and Canals corporation has never objected to its being used by anyone ordinarily desiring to travel through the 'canal field'."

The land now contains a well-grounded football field with goal posts and everything. There is a baseball "annex" nearby, and a baseball diamond big enough to get a grip in any Pawtucket school boys' baseball to lift a home run over the wire fence into the canal water and win the game. There is a sand-running track, too. If you know how to make the sharp turn at the end, you can beat the hump of corrugated ground on your left as you return to the home station and the flag.

School Gardens Flourish

School gardens flourish in summer on a larger section of the canal proprietors' property, too. During the World war, community school gardens were the top in quality and here fruitful harvests. During one two-year period since the war, vegetables bloomed as if Ceres were there to supervise and encourage. Indeed, State Normal school past supervisors lauded the garden promotions at one time and good old Bartlett captured many "firsts" in the promotion awards.

To show the Locks and Canals proprietors' magnanimous desire to improve the plot of land for children's pleasure, a contractor was engaged to do some "filling in." It was discovered that he was dumping street sweepings and wharves on the land blocked out for recreation, and the school instructions were issued. Straight to the proprietors' offices on Broadway went the grievance committee. And what happened? The proprietors, ill-represented that improper work had been done at their expense when they wanted only the best, engaged another contractor, with the result that good gravel and loam of the excellent kind, was promptly trucked to the canal land and promptly deposited to meet all requirements. And all this labor and expense, too, gladly performed by the proprietors of the Lowell locks and canals and with ardent consideration for the interests of the children who were to be benefited without cost to them or the city of Lowell.

The only indication that the proprietors hold dominion over the "canal field" today is a small sign tucked on a big chestnut post close to the canal banks. It is a simple warning "to all persons" to keep away from the canal.

No one representative of Lowell's many public schools is happier than Miss Charlotte M. Markland, the kindly principal of Bartlett school, who has long approved of the use of the land back of the school grounds. Miss Markland today was emphatic in her praise of the Locks and Canals proprietors, who she declared, have shown a spirit of sincere good feeling and abundant interest by graciously allowing the canal lands to remain wide open at all times as a playground haven for hundreds of delighted children of both sexes.

YEARS OF STOMACH AND BOWEL TROUBLE

Had Three Operations and Was All Run Down. Newspaper Guided Her Back to Health

"I suffered from stomach and bowel trouble in the worst form for a long time. I went through three serious operations and doctors all the time, but got nothing that would do me any good."

"One issue of Milk's Emulsion advertised in the daily paper, I decided to try it. The first three doses relieved me, and I am now on the fourth bottle, and can say I have never taken any medicine that has done me so much good. I am feeling better than I ever did since my operations. I am gaining in health and flesh rapidly. I now weigh 145 pounds." Mrs. Harriet Knappe, 1015 Bidwell St., Lowell, La.

"Thousands of sufferers from weakness of the stomach, indigestion and bowel troubles, have found that Milk's Emulsion gives prompt relief and real lasting benefit."

"Milk's Emulsion restores healthy action to the bowels, and it is a tonic for the whole system, doing away with all food on pills and purgatives. It restores appetite and quickly puts the emaciated in shape to assimilate food and build flesh and strength. After that, it is strongly recommended to those whose sickness has weakened it, as a powerful aid in resisting the power of the enemy of wasting disease."

"It is the only solid emulsion made, and so palatable that it is suitable for the youngest children. When the mother is weak, the children will be weak, too."

No matter how severe your case, are guided to the Milk's Emulsion by the doctor, the pharmacist, the druggist, or with you use it according to directions, and you will be promptly cured. The price of the bottle is $1.25 per bottle. Milk's Emulsion Co., Terre Haute, Ind. Sold by druggists everywhere.

Nice Folks

Delight in this method of combating
film on teeth

Whiter teeth have come to millions in the past few years. You see them everywhere. The dingy film which used to coat them is now combated daily.

Those whiter teeth mean cleaner, safer teeth. You will want them when you know. Learn how to get them by this simple test.

The cause is film

Film is the cause of cloudy teeth—that viscous film you feel. Under old methods, much of it clings and stays. Soon it becomes discolored, then forms dingy coats, which once were more common than now.

Film also holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

All of these troubles became alarmingly common under old methods of teeth cleaning.

Then dental science found two film combatants. One disintegrates the film at all stages of formation.

Protect the Enamel

Pepsodent disintegrates the film, then removes it with an agent far softer than enamel. Never use a film combant which contains harsh grit.

The other removes it without harmful scouring.

Abile authorities proved these methods by many careful tests. Then a new-type tooth paste was created to apply them daily. The name is Pepsodent.

Leading dentists everywhere began to advise it, and now it is used the world over.

New requirements

Pepsodent meets other new requirements. It multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva—there to neutralize mouth acids. It multiplies the starch digestant in saliva—there to digest starch deposits.

Thus every use of Pepsodent gives manifold power to these great natural tooth-protecting agents.

You'll quickly see

You will quickly see and feel these good effects. And you will realize what they mean to you and yours.

Send the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth become whiter as the film-coats disappear.

The results will be a revelation to you. They will bring a new conception of clean teeth. Cut out coupon now.

Admiral Benson Speaks Here

of the poor throughout the centuries of her history. Her priesthood has needed but the whisper of distress to marshal all available resources for prompt and comforting service wherever it was needed. Religious communities, countless institutions, countless organizations of laymen and laywomen have obeyed the impulse of divine charity and have ennobled themselves and commended the church to a doubting world. Your Catholic Women's league is one of these agencies that operate by the impulse of faith and act under the pressure of spiritual sympathy in serving, as an unconsecrated priesthood might serve, in the low valleys of misery and baffled life. You honor and strengthen yourselves when you come together in numbers to serve these, the least brethren of Christ.

Service of Weakness

You bring your strength to the service of weakness. You prefer the volunteer service of inspired love rather than the cumbersome way of uncertain laws that give uncertain service where it is greatly needed. You are impressed by the teaching of Christ which confers the distinction of singular precedence to charity, in the Christian life. You thus take on through origin and association a social and spiritual prestige that makes you an honor to your city, a treasure to your church, a tower of strength to those who have need of your help.

May I be permitted now to interpret briefly the spiritual and social significance of your work.

In a world that is builded frankly upon the appeal to selfishness, you foster the practice of unselfishness. In a world that scorns the principles of getting wealth, you seek the glories of giving. In a world that witnesses wilful estrangement of social classes, you effect their reunion at many points and send the splendor of the rainbow of human brotherhood to cross the chasm that separates classes from one another.

You are spiritually minded, patient, thoughtful and helpful. You know that society has need of this type always; that she has supreme need of it now.

For your wider guidance in the great things that you do and in order to commend the faith and the church that inspire you, I venture to offer some suggestions that may, I hope, help you in the thorough doing of the work that you have in hand.

Noblesse oblige. Rank has its obligations. If I attempt to set before you the splendor of the Christian charity that inspires you and the dignity of the works that you undertake, I do so not to praise you but to please you to efforts that are worthy of your graces.

In doing your charity, this best of all services, you must hold yourself obliged to give your best always. It would be an indignity were you to be careless in your methods, indifferent to results, temperamental in your views and narrow in your interpretations. If you are in a sense a lawyer for the poor, you must argue their case well. You must know their needs not by way of impressions or rumors or guesses. You must know them through careful study, accurate understanding, scholarly reach of information. You must then adapt your methods to your knowledge and this adaptation must be the result of careful, collective thinking and foresight just as we in the navy put careful thinking and cautious foresight into every campaign that we project.

And, again, as in the navy we send official observers who are carefully trained to study naval administration and strategy in friendly countries, you must send your careful observers to visit and to consult other experts in the field in order that you may incorporate into your service every atom of approved wisdom to be found in them.

At the Front Line

And, furthermore, as we in the navy never hesitate to discard a warship when its type is obsolete, or to send it back to humbler service while we keep our ships of the line up to the farthest point reached by progress in naval construction, you must in like manner be prepared to keep your organization at the front line in every kind of social service that you and make. You must not hesitate to improve your methods as your social insight is improved. You must not be reluctant, you in particular who have done your work well, to welcome new types of knowledge and insight, new methods, and more far-reaching ways of service as progress in thought and insight into results point out more effective ways of serving the poor.

You must train yourselves to look into the individual or the single family to find all of the problems that exist there. You must look beyond individual relief to prevention, beyond the service of one dependent family to the service of all dependent families that come within the reach of your solicitude. You must recognize the point up to which volunteer effort is adequate and you must make it adequate to the fullest possible limit. And when you find that the complexities of life transcend the resources of voluntary effort and private means, you must do your best to demand and to direct the helpful legislation that will improve conditions and promote in even this less perfect way, the high purposes that inspire you.

In all of this you must remember that you serve the poor directly; that you serve your country which should be the lover and defender of social justice; that you serve well your beloved church who looks upon you as her missionaries in showing to the world the spirit and the resources that you bring to the service of the poor.

I do not apologize for sketching to you a most exacting plan of action. I do not apologize for asking sacrifice and consecration. I feel it a privilege to be permitted to ask of you to give to your poor, the best of which you are capable, for in doing this I am aiding only to interpret as best I may

one of the high obligations of the Christian life, interpreted to you authoritatively by your church.

Members of the Lowell Navy club, in uniform, served as ushers. The League hospitality committee, in charge of the reception, was composed of the following:

Chairman, Miss Mary D. Long; Mrs. P. H. Bronsman, Mrs. B. J. Cahalan, Mrs. J. T. Donohue, Mrs. F. Lamoureux, Mrs. F. T. Morrissey, Mrs. M. J. Sharkey, Mrs. George Caluso, Mrs. Jeremiah Connors, Mrs. J. J. Higgins, Mrs. D. Mahoney, Mrs. J. H. Murphy, Mrs. D. T. Sullivan, Misses Alice T. Lee, Eva Blanchard, Cleida DeLong, Katherine P. McCarthy, Margaret Tierney, Mary Boyle, Etta Courtney, Anne Duffy and Elizabeth O'Connor.

EXERCISES AT THE K. OF C. ROOMS

The distinguished visitor arrived in Lowell at 10:40 a. m. and was met at the Middlesex street depot by Grand Knight Frank A. Groves and Lecturer Edward F. Slattery, Jr. His first stop was at St. Margaret's church, where he attended high mass at 11 o'clock, and was then escorted to the York club for luncheon.

Shortly before 3 o'clock in the afternoon, the admiral was taken on a tour of the city, visiting the Auditorium and other main points of interest and expressing admiration for the city's beauty spots. At 5:30 he arrived at the K. of C. building in Boston street and was cordially greeted by several hundred members. The rooms were appropriately decorated in the national colors.

The reception exercises were held in the assembly hall, with Lecturer Slattery presiding. Provisions to the speaking program, the entire gathering stood and sang "America." In presenting the speaker, Mr. Slattery said it was a great pleasure for the Knights of Columbus to have as a guest, a man who for nearly fifty years had served his country efficiently and conscientiously. "And I know I speak for you all," said the lecturer. In concluding, "when I say that Admiral Benson typifies the real, faithful, Catholic gentleman."

The admiral arose and enthusiastic applause and delivered a brief but impressive talk on citizenship, the work of the Knights of Columbus in the World war and the building up of community spirit. He was followed by Rev. Daniel J. Heffernan, chaplain of Lowell council, Knights of Columbus, who told the members to remember always that two things—God and patriotism—go together, patriotism, because it is love of country, and love of country, because it goes back to the source of all love, God.

There are two things touched upon by Admiral Benson that are important," he said, "and these two things are example and toleration. The man who lives honorably and above suspicion, as Admiral Benson does, finds it easy to live his life, although often called upon to make sacrifices. Let us, therefore, be faithful to God, to country, and to the Knights of Columbus which we represent, and the future will be secure."

At the conclusion of Mr. Heffernan's inspiring talk, the assemblage joined in the singing of "The Star Spangled Banner," after which the admiral stood at the exit and shook hands with each member individually.

Delicate Art Work by Man Whose Hands Were Crippled

Interesting and exceedingly pretty art work is being made by Mr. Wilbur J. Rogers of 11 Waban St., Natick, Mass., whose hands were once crippled with rheumatism and who was confined to a wheel chair. It is evident from the work Mr. Rogers accomplishes that his hands are in perfect condition. He is now able to go about almost as well as ever, having discarded his wheel chair. He claims a preparation called Weldon's enabled him to enjoy life once more without the terrible pains of rheumatism. His recovery has attracted much attention in his home town.

Weldon is for sale at Dows' and other good drug stores. A book explaining more about it is now being sent free upon request to the Weldon Co., 132 Boylston St., Boston, Mass. Adv.

NOVENA IN HONOR OF IMMACULATE CONCEPTION AT ST. PATRICK'S

Fr. McDonough Urges Discontinuance of the So-Called "Mock Marriage" at Parties and Social Gatherings
—News of the Catholic Churches

A novena in honor of the Immaculate Conception will begin in St. Patrick's church next Friday evening at 7 o'clock, according to announcement made at all the masses yesterday. Special services will be held each evening. The university extension classes for men and women are progressing along favorable lines, unusual interest being displayed by those anxious to derive the benefits from such an undertaking.

At the 11 o'clock mass Fr. McDonough preached an able sermon on the gospel of the day. In the course of instructions previous to the sermon Fr. McDonough took occasion to speak about the so-called "mock marriage" now so very much in vogue at parties and social gatherings. He said that the mock marriage was a travesty on one of the most sacred sacraments of the church and he sincerely hoped that the people of St. Patrick's and other parishes throughout the city would refrain in the future from indulging in mock marriages.

In the congregation at the 10 o'clock mass in St. Margaret's church yesterday was Rear Admiral Benson, who went to mass directly upon his arrival in Lowell. He was accompanied by Dr. Slaughter, president of the League of Catholic Women, Grand Knight Frank A. Graves and E. W. Slattery, Jr., lecturer of Lowell Council, K. of C. Rev. William J. Brennan celebrated the mass, while the sermon henediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament.

At the 8 o'clock mass in the Immaculate Conception church yesterday, members of the Junior Holy Name and the senior branch of the Children of Mary received communion. They held their regular meetings yesterday afternoon. The annual mission for the women of the parish will open next Sunday and continue for one week.

The Girls' sodality of St. Peter's church received communion at the 8:30 o'clock mass in that church yesterday. The mass was celebrated by Rev. John M. Marion, who was assisted in giving communion by Rev. Daniel J. Heffernan.

The Immaculate Conception sodality of St. Michael's church will meet tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock. The annual Christmas sale, which will be held on Dec. 5, 7 and 8.

The Holy Rosary sodality will receive communion at the 8 o'clock mass next Sunday.

The Children of Mary sodality and the Angel Guardian sodality received communion at the 10 o'clock mass in St. Jean Baptiste church yesterday. The annual mission for the young women of the parish closed yesterday afternoon and will be brought to a close next Sunday.

The women of St. John's parish received communion at the 10 o'clock mass in that church yesterday. In the afternoon at 5 o'clock, vespers were held.

The masses in St. Marie's church in South Lowell yesterday were celebrated by Rev. Guillaume Duquette, C.M.I. Members of St. Anne's sodality received communion at the 7:30 o'clock mass.

The regular meeting of the Angel Guardian sodality of St. Jean Baptiste church was held yesterday afternoon at 8 o'clock. The members of St. John's parish received communion at the evening services closing with the 7 o'clock mass yesterday morning, and held their monthly meeting in the afternoon.

The Zouaves and the boys of the Parish received communion in Notre Dame de Lourdes church at the 7:30 o'clock mass yesterday.

The parishioners of St. John's church, North Chelmsford, yesterday had an opportunity to hear their newly appointed pastor, Rev. John J. Crane, S.T.L., who preached at all masses.

In his sermon Father Crane expressed his joy at being able to serve in the same parish in which his schoolmate, Father Kenney, who as faithfully served, saying that he hoped to be able to do at least half of what his friend, Father Kenney, predicted he would do. Father Crane also stated that as soon as possible he would visit the parishioners at their homes and make their personal acquaintances as well as that of the children.

Pacific Coast's Latest Sensation, Halfback Stockton of Gonzaga

HOUSTON STOCKTON

When Gonzaga University of Spokane meets Detroit University at the dedication of the new Detroit stadium, Nov. 25, eastern followers of the game for college sport will be given an opportunity of viewing in person the Pacific coast's greatest exponent of the forward pass. It is doubtful if another player in any section boasts the proud passing record of Houston Stockton, Bulldog halfback and field general. At any rate, there are no players available which give anyone else the record of Stockton.

In 1922, Stockton passed for a total of 1011 yards in eight games, an average of 126 yards a game. The best competing performance of which there is any record is that of Mohr of Notre Dame in 1921. Mohr passed 1150 yards in 11 games, for an average of 104 yards, and this performance has been indicated as a record.

In the first game of the season this year, Stockton's first eight passes against Washington state were successful and netted the Bulldog from four to 36 yards. Stockton's ninth pass was grounded, but his tenth was a 20-yard drive across the Washington state goal line for the second touchdown.

In the Gonzaga-West Virginia game at San Diego last Christmas, Stockton twice shot accurate passes to eligible teammates standing on the easterners' goal line, only to have these passes dropped. Both were long shots, which would have boosted his average materially, and both would have meant touchdowns and West Virginia's defeat. With these two errors, the Bulldog passed a total of 118 yards in the last quarter of that game. Stockton is not only a passer, do lux and field general, he is one of the finest all-around backfield men on the coast this year. He is a splendid example of the triple threat, and Walter Camp cannot afford to select his All-American team without giving Stockton consideration. It is as much to Stockton's splendid work as it is to the coaching of "Doc" Dorak, former Notre Dame star, that the Gonzaga Bulldog is known as "The Notre Dame of the west."

You Can Do It Better With Gas

Will Your Gas Range Do This?

LET'S Pretend it's Thanksgiving Day. The family is going to the matinee, and friends are coming for six o'clock dinner. It's the maid's day off. What will you do? "Why—there's only one answer," you say, "stay home and cook the dinner." And your answer is quite correct, unless—you own a New Process Gas Range equipped with the

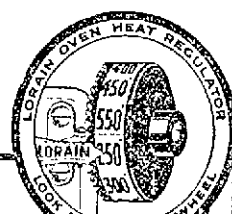

LORAIN OVEN HEAT REGULATOR

You see, women who own Lorain-equipped Gas Ranges can cook a Whole Meal—soup, vegetables, meat and dessert—in the oven at one time. While the meal is cooking they can go to the matinee, football game, visiting, or do other work about the house for three, four or five hours.

At the end of the pre-determined time the entire dinner will be found deliciously done and ready to serve—and all cooked without spending one minute in the kitchen.

Now, will your gas range do that? Or will it do any of these things? Does it enable you to do all your canning in the oven by the sterilization process—the easiest, surest, quickest and best way to can.

One easy turn of the Lorain Red Wheel gives you a choice of 44 measured and controlled oven heats for any kind of oven cooking or baking.

And, are you absolutely certain every time you place a pie, a cake, cookies, biscuits or bread in the oven that they'll come out "just right" every time?

If you can't do these things with your gas range you should be willing to make most any sacrifice to buy one equipped with the Lorain Oven Heat Regulator, which makes all these things possible.

We'll be glad to explain and demonstrate the remarkable advantages of the Lorain Oven Heat Regulator, the device that measures and automatically controls the heat of the oven. Come to our store and learn for yourself.

New Process Gas Ranges are Lorain-equipped

New Process gas ranges may be had in full enamel or enamel trimmed. You will like their plain, straight lines. No trouble to keep clean—as easy to wash as a dish. No upkeep expense—New Process ranges are noted for their durability. Patented top burners give a whirling flame which concentrates the heat on the bottom of the cooking utensil—no waste of heat. Complete and modern in all details. Ask any New Process Owner.

SHOW FORBES WAS A DESERTER

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.—Papers sold by war department officials to show that at one time Charles R. Forbes, former director of the Veterans' Bureau, was dropped from the rolls of the army as deserter, were turned over to the Senate Veterans' committee today by the department. The record, sent to the committee at its request, also was said to show that later Forbes was apprehended, served out his term of enlistment and was discharged without having been brought to trial.

LEVIATHAN SETS NEW RECORD

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—America's biggest steamship, the Leviathan, established a new world's record for west bound navigation of the Atlantic between Cherbourg and New York, arriving today after a run of five days, seven hours and 20 minutes, with an average hourly speed of 24.17 knots. This broke by 13 minutes the previous record, held by the Cunarder Manzanilla, of five days, seven hours, 33 minutes.

Three automobiles, one of them a truck, figured in the weird accident. With Arsenal in his coupe was Sullivan and the two women. One woman was sitting between the two men and the other was on Sullivan's lap. The car rocked with the odor of tobacco and liquor.

The theoretical reconstruction made of the accident by Police Officer Curtis of Tynghore is that in the heavy dusk Arsenal failed to see a two-ton truck just ahead of him, and bound in the same direction, until he was almost upon it. Then he is presumed to have suddenly twisted his car to the left to clear and pass the truck. The overhanging tailboard of the truck is believed to have become caught in the windshield of Arsenal's car and smashed in to the left of the road, tearing off the top at the same time. The driver was handicapped greatly by lack of operating room.

The four occupants were all hurled through the air. Johnson sustained a fracture of the knee when his foot became caught between his foot brake and clutch pedal as he tried to halt his car.

Motorman Chief Rescued

An electric car driven by Michael O'Hara had passed the scene of the accident but a few moments before and was proceeding along the trolley company's right of way when O'Hara heard the crash that attended the smash. He returned, thinking he might be able to give some assistance. All five victims were loaded on the trolley car and O'Hara started full speed ahead for the nearest physician. Dr. F. D. Smith, in Tynghore, The Lowell police were summoned and asked to send an ambulance and the doctor was also summoned and requested to await the arrival of the trolley. Sullivan died while aboard the trolley car.

The truck which figured in the accident is owned by J. Wyss of Chelsea and was driven by his son, Samuel. It is regularly on a Boston-Nashua run and passes through Tynghore daily.

Persons who arrived at the scene shortly after the accident say that the tail-light of the truck was found to be lighted and visible for a considerable distance.
